Mobutu Expels Ghanians; Kasavubu Scores In U. N.

Diplomatic Staff Ousted In Congo Feud

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Determined to maintain his strongman role in the Congo, Col. Joseph Mobutu Friday ordered the entire diplomatic staff of Ghana to get out of the country by Monday. The United Nations command said it could not interfere.

The chief target of Mobutu's anger is Nathaniel Welbeck, Ghanian charge d'affaires who has openly acted as political adviser to deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba. Mobutu is prevented from arresting Lumumba only by a U. N. guard posted around the ex-premier's villa.

The development came as the United Nations found itself dangerously enmeshed in pitiless tribal warfare in secessionist Katanga Province. There, the fierce Baluba tribesmen loyal to Lumumba spread to south Katanga and the United Nations was forced to throw in heavy reinforcements.

The feud of Mobutu and his pro-Western supporters with the Ghana diplomats is of long standing and broke into the open early in October.

Ghana Official Arrested

Only Tuesday night, Mobutu's soldiers arrested Lovelace Mensah, third secretary of Ghana's embassy. He was accused of trying to take money and plans for an invasion of Katanga to Lumumba. Katanga President Moise Tshombe is an old foe of Lumumba. Welbeck at the time called the accusation a fabrication.

Mobutu's ally, President Joseph Kasavubu, had declared Welbeck persona non grata—unacceptable—last month. But Welbeck appealed to the United Nations and stayed on, guarded in his residence and embassy by Ghana troops.

The U. N. Command at that time told Kasavubu and Mobutu it would not permit the forcible expulsion of the Ghanian diplomats.

Positions Switched

Now, without explanation, the command has switched positions. Western diplomats speculated that it was due to Kasavubu's effective appearance at the U. N. General Assembly in New York.

On the military front, the United Nations rushed troop reinforcements to northern Katanga, where tribal war has taken at least 100 lives in the past few days.

U.N. officaals admitted the situation was out of control in rural areas where U.N. units had to be withdrawn from exposed villages to the more easily defended towns.

The fierce, semicivilized Baluba tribe of north Katanga apparently went on the warpath when it learned by bush telegraph of President Tshombe's unannounced tour of Katanga police strongpoints in their area.

The Katanga Baluba warriors are fiercely opposed to Tshombe's secession policy.

GOP Will Make Check Of Votes In Eight States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican campaign officials Friday ordered field checks which might lead to vote recounts in eight states — and even possibly a turnabout victory for GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon.

The decision to send representatives into the eight states was reached by Leonard W. Hall, Robert H. Finch and Fred C. Scribner, top strategy planners in Nixon's campaign against apparently victorious Democrat John F. Kennedy.

Finch told an interviewer that Nixon, now resting in Florida, hadn't been consulted about the meeting that produced the decision to send GOP representatives into Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

About the time this was being announced, New Jersey Republicans moved for a recount in five counties where Kennedy rolled up a 139,000 plurality over Nixon. Kennedy won New Jersey and its 16 electoral votes by 21,800 votes.

Lou Guylay, spokesman for the Republican National Committee, told newsmen the party's agents will check on complaints of alleged election irregularities and try to determine whether a vote recount in those states might snatch victory from Kennedy and confer it, belatedly, on Nixon.

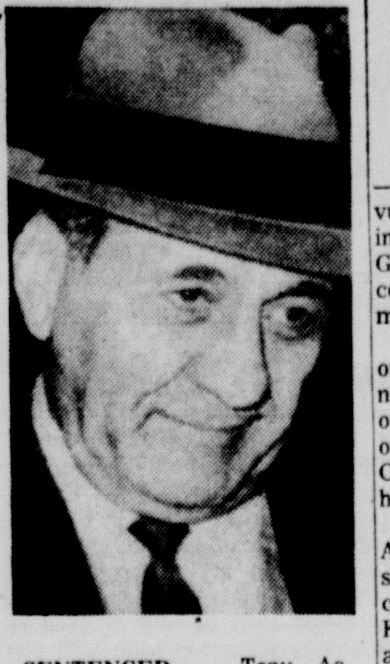
The latest tabulation — with votes still trickling in — showed Kennedy maintaining a wafer-thin popular vote lead over Nixon, but more than enough electoral votes — 300 — to claim the presidency. The required number is 269.

The totals to date:

Kennedy — 33,869,700.

Nixon — 33,687,285.

The difference in Kennedy's favor — only 182,415 out of more than 67½ million votes cast for the major party candidates.



SENTENCED — Tony Accardo, reputed head of the syndicate founded by Al Capone, had this expression yesterday after being sentenced to six years in prison and $15,000 fine on income tax evasion conviction at Chicago. He leaves federal building where he was sentenced after posting bond pending appeal. He enjoys reputation of never having spent a night in jail. (AP Photofax)

AF Dependent Travel Abroad To End Feb. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Friday canceled all overseas travel after next Feb. 1 for dependents of its uniformed personnel.

It thus was the first of the three armed services to put teeth into President Eisenhower's order requiring a reduction of 284,000 in the number of women and children living abroad with the forces.

The Air Force informed its overseas and global commands of immediate action to halt issuance of dependent travel authorizations calling for overseas movement after Feb. 1.

In a message to commands in the United States, Air Force headquarters said military personnel on orders or alerted for foreign assignment "will be expected to comply with such orders." It said they will proceed without their families unless they have approved reservations calling for departure no later than the last day in January.

The Air Force said it recognized that exceptions "will have to be granted for humanitarian considerations, hardships and peculiarities of selected Air Force units."

The Navy Department, in a message signed by Secretary William B. Franke, voiced general support for the administration decision on dependents overseas.

In a message to all commands, the secretary said "It is imperative that command action be taken to impress on all Navy and Marine Corps personnel that these actions are vitally important to the welfare of our country."

Franke said detailed Navy plans are now in preparation under a general concept that the reduction will be gradual and carried out to a large extent by shortening overseas tours and by reducing the number of families going overseas.

Adjournment Motion Loses By 51-11 Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Congo President Joseph Kasavubu Friday won the first round in his fight for a seat in the U.N. General Assembly. It bolstered considerably his chances of ultimate victory.

The possibility of victory came on a motion by Ghana in the 99-nation assembly to adjourn without considering a recommendation of the assembly's Credentials Committee to seat a delegation headed by Kasavubu.

Ghana sought to delay until an Asian-African conciliation commission tries for an on-the-spot reconciliation between the forces of Kasavubu and the man he deposed as premier, Patrice Lumumba.

Asia-Africa Bloc Splits

But the Asian-African bloc split on the motion and it was defeated by a vote of 51 against, 36 in favor of and 11 abstentions.

This was a far wider victory margin than expected by the United States and other Western supporters of Kasavubu. Western sources were confident he would win by as much or more when the assembly votes on the committe's recommendation.

Ten newly admitted African members of the French community voted against adjournment, as did four other members of the Asian-African bloc — Japan, the Philippines, Thailand and Turkey. Abstainers included Cambodia, Iran, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Pakistan, Somalia, and Upper Volta.

The Soviet bloc voted solidly for postponement along with Ghana, Guinea, India and other nations who are backing a Lumumba delegation for the vacant Congo seat.

Commission Effect Uncertain

Just what effect the seating of Kasavubu would have on the decision of the 15-nation conciliation commission to leave for the Congo next wek remained uncertain.

Some U.N. sources said Mali and Guinea had threatened to quit the commission if Kasavubu were seated, and that Ghana and India would resign if that occurred.

The commission decided Thursday night it would begin its work in Leopoldville at the end of next week.

But Kasavubu has declared the commission should not go without his consent — and this could not be given until he obtains his assembly seat.

Laos Premier Will Team Up With Pro-Reds

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Faced with the mounting strength of rightist rebels, neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma agreed Friday to take the Communist-led Pathet Lao into a coalition regime.

Then Souvanna took off for San Neua in northeast Laos, apparently to confer with Prince Souvanna Vong, his half-brother who leads the Pathet Lao.

Once before, when he was entrusted with the premiership in 1956, Souvanna patched up a truce with his half-brother that halted the civil war for a time.

But now his approach to the Pathet Lao may only intensify civil strife. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, head of the rightist rebel regime, has sworn to drive the Pathet Lao guerrillas from this Asian kingdom.

The hard-pressed premier appeared to be turning toward the Communists because of the pressure frome Phoumi, who, he charges, is backed by the United States.

A communique announcing agreement to the formation of a coalition government did not say when it would be formed or give the extent of Pathet Lao participation.

The government said it will appeal to Communist China and Communist North Viet Nam for economic aid. Souvanna's government accepted in principle an offer of such aid from the Soviet Union last month.

Judges Defer New Orleans School Ruling

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Three federal judges refused Friday to decide immediately whether to return segregation to the public schools. They left integration the law in this strife-torn Southern city.

The judges adjourned a three-hour hearing with all integration orders intact. They indicated a ruling on the massive assembly of litigation surrounding the five-day-old school integration is likely in a few days.

While integration was still in effect, New Orleans hoped for a week of surcease and quiet. The state's public schools will be closed next week while teachers attend a state convention. The school break extends through the Thanksgiving holidays.

The possibility was raised that the following Monday — Nov. 28 — could see integration extended to New Orleans' large Catholic parochial school system as well.

The New Orleans States-Item said Friday the Catholic schools will admit Negro pupils to the first grade on that date if public schools remain integrated.

Catholic officials, however, quickly replied that no date had been set.

While the judges made haste slowly in the complex hearing Friday morning, several miles toward the eastern rim of the city, four little Negro girls sat in classes at two previously all-white elementary schools.

A white boycott put them in near - segregation despite the legal victories of the integrationists.

New Orleans has been shaken by a series of disorders since integration began Monday. More than 1,000 white demonstrators clashed with police Wednesday. Fire hoses had to be brought into play to disperse the unruly crowd.

Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asked the judges to reject the appeal of the Orleans Parish (New Orleans) School Board to suspend integration.

Marshall contended the board was asking that "the rights of these little Negro girls be given up."

Samuel I. Rosenberg, school board attorney, said the legal battle between the state and federal governments "is not the fight of the Orleans Parish School Board."

He asked that either integration be suspended or the school board be protected from the state.

The Louisiana Legislature has fired four of the five members of the board and city School Supt. James F. Redmond and turned the duties of the board over to a legislative committee.

Britain Ends Draft

LONDON (AP) — Britain ended the draft Friday and freed civilians from military obligations for the first time in 21 years. Compulsory military service had existed without a break since 1939.

John Hare, Minister of labor and national service, announced the windup in the House of Commons.

Auto, Truck Crash; 5 Die

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — Five persons were killed Friday in a head-on collision of an automobile and a pickup truck west of Brandon.

The highway patrol identified the dead, all passengers in the automobile, as Mrs. Gayther F. Cole, 32, and her two daughters, Cathy, 3, and Barbara, 1; Mrs. V. Q. Cole Jr., 34, of Rankin County; and Minerva Mage of Puckett, their maid.

Sherry Jean Cole, 2, a daughter of Mrs. W. Q. Cole; and Luther B. Shows, 49, and George Holloway, 74, of Mendenhall were injured critically.

Investigating officers said the collision occurred when Shows, driving the pickup truck, attempted to pass two other vehicles.

Gang Kingpin Gets Six Years

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago gang lord Tony Accardo was sentenced to six years in prison Friday on the same charge that nailed Al Capone—income tax evasion.

He was also ordered to pay $15,000 in fines for trying to get away with a two-bit tax dodge.

Accardo, who had been untouchable as far as the law was concerned throughout a long life in the rackets, was convicted of writing off $3,995 in expense for his little red sports car as business deductions.

Accardo contended he used the flashy Mercedes-Benz auto in his role as an honest beer salesman. The government argued Accardo never sold an honest bottle of beer in his life, but used the salesman's job as a coverup for huge illegal profits.

In imposing sentence, Federal Judge Julius J. Hoffman denounced Accardo as a kingpin in organized gambling—"an industry managed in secret by the underworld, powered by bribery and annually yielding an enormous and intolerable national product of degredation, misery and violence."

CIA Director Briefs Kennedy On Red Menace

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy received a secret briefing Friday on the Communist menace that has U. S. warships and planes ready to strike in the Caribbean.

Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency and his deputy, Richard Bissell, provided the briefing at Kennedy's request.

Kennedy had asked them to do so even before President Eisenhower ordered an aircraft carrier, four destroyers and two long-range aircraft on patrol in response to appeals from Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Eisenhower's action Thursday followed attempted revolts which Guatemala and Nicaragua claimed were led by supporters of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. It was a definite warning to both Cuba and the Soviet Union to stay away from the rest of Latin America.

Dulles and Bissell brought two large folders, presumably containing maps, charts and top secret documents, to the president-elect's ocean-front vacation retreat. The three men sat in the sun in lawn chairs, looking out over the Atlantic for the 2-hour, 40-minute briefing.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, gave that picture to newsmen, along with word that: "They discussed a wide range of matters, one of which was the situation in Central America."

Both Kennedy and Dulles were silent on their appraisal of Caribbean trouble spots.

Saturday, the man who will be the next president will be digging into a question somewhat related to the Caribbean worry—whether the Defense Department organization is strong enough to perform its mission in an uneasy world.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former Air Force secretary now mentioned for secretary of defense, was commissioned by Kennedy to draft a report of this topic. Also a Florida vacationer, Symington will go over the report with Kennedy during the weekend.

Painter Loses His Long Fight To Remain In U.S.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — William A. Mackie Friday lost his long fight against deportation.

As relatives sobbed by the runway, Immigration Service officials put the hollow-cheeked house painter aboard an airliner and he was off for Finland.

"This is going to be an interesting trip, but I hope the American people will bring me home pretty soon," said Mackie, 51, of Portland, who was accused by the government of being a Communist in the 1930s. He denied it.

Mackie wore a borrowed overcoat as he tried to comfort relatives and then walked across the runway to the airliner on a chill, cloudy morning. He said he had only $85 in his pocket and had no idea of what he will do when he gets to Finland. He speaks only a few words of Finnish and said he knows no one there.

At San Francisco, before Mackie started the Pan American polar flight to Europe, he was given the coat of a man whose abortive deportation drew worldwide attention.

Mackie was met at the San Francisco airport by Mrs. William Heikkila, whose husband was arrested on a San Francisco street in 1958, rushed by plane to Finland — then brought back when it was disclosed court action still was pending.

Heikkila died before his case could be concluded.

Fifty persons were at the airport in Portland to tell Mackie goodbye and protest the deportation. Among them was Hamish Scott MacKay, 55, of Portland, scheduled to be deported Friday night to his native Canada.

Papers Reportedly Link Nicaraguan Revolt With Cuba

By The Associated Press

Cuba's Fidel Castro and his Communist pals — Red China and the Soviet Union — charged Friday that the U.S. warship shield protecting Guatemala and Nicaragua menaces world peace.

Castro-controlled newspapers in Havana shouted in black headlines that President Eisenhower's deployment of the warships in nearby waters could open a way for a direct attack on Cuba.

Radio Moscow chipped in a warning that the U.S. movement into the Caribbean is "fraught with the danger of a military conflict."

Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai said the United States is threatening Cuba by what he called force of arms, and he promised continued support of Castro's regime.

Other Developments

Other late Friday developments bearing on the Cuban - Central American - Caribbean situation included:

— Costa Rica said it found documents on a Nicaraguan opposition leader linking the unsuccessful Nicaraguan revolt with Castro and international communism.

— Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras said he favors a Korea-type police action against Cuba by the Organization of American States.

— Cuba formally protested to the United Nations over President Eisenhower's order dispatching warships to protect Guatemla and Nicaragua.

— The State Department in Washington reported Cuba has received at least 28,000 tons of arms — tanks, guns, planes — from the Soviet bloc and has the largest army in Latin America.

U.S. Brushes Off Furor

The clamor from Cuba and the world's two largest Communist powers was brushed aside by the United States. The Navy in Washington reiterated that the carrier Shangri La and four destroyers are in position to help repel any invasion of the two little Central American nations.

The State Department in Washington spiked a report published in London that the warships might halt suspected ships on the high seas. Washington said ships would be stopped only in the two nations' territorial waters, and then only on the request of Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said in Augusta, Ga., the Moscow broadsides were "Communist-type reaction" and added: "There's a very similar reaction — the words are almost the same—from Cuba."

Cuba Changes Intimidation

President Eisenhower ordered the warships into the Caribbean at the request of Guatemala and Nicaragua after both nations stamped out uprisings they charged had support from Castro's Cuba.

In Havana, the semiofficial newspaper Revolucion called the U.S. action "Yanke military occupation of Central America," and asserted it was designed to intimidate Cuba.

"Guantanamo or Guatemala, the place for the self-provoked aggression is immaterial," said Revolucion.

AF To Conduct Gable Services

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Air Force will conduct private funeral services with full military honors for Clark Gable Saturday, his studio announced Friday.

Pallbearers will include Spencer Tracy, James Stewart and Robert Taylor.

The screen's top star, who died Wednesday night at 59 of a second heart attack within 10 days, served in the Army Air Corps in World War II.

Quietly enlisting as a private, Gable attended officer's candidate school, earned his wings as a gunner, and in Europe won the Air Medal for exceptionally meritorious achievement in five combat bomber missions. He was discharged a major.

Air Force Secretary Dudley Sharp has appointed Lt. Col. James D. Hunter to represent him at the funeral at 9 a.m. Saturday, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer said. The rites will be in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn Memorial Park at nearby Glendale, with Chaplain Johnson E. West of March Air Force Base officiating.

Work On Space Rocket Facilities Halted By Strike

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A dispute over who should handle certain electrical work halted construction Friday on launch facilities for two giant space rockets, Saturn and Centaur.

National Labor Relations Board investigators are here to determine if the NLRB should issue an injunction against two striking unions—the International Brotherhood of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which directs the Saturn and Centaur programs, filed unfair labor practice charges against the union and asked the NLRB to grant an injunction to halt the strike. The charges were filed in Tampa.

The dispute began Monday when NASA brought in civil service employes to perform technical electrical work on equipment for the Saturn blockhouse.

Weger Indicted In Triple Slaying

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Rumpled Chester O. Weger, 21, was formally accused Friday of a shocking Starved Rock Park triple slaying and other crimes.

His eyes were downcast as he was handed copies of indictments charging that he murdered three Chicago women March 14 in a rugged canyon of the scenic nature spot.

Most of the curious who crowded the circuit courtroom of Judge Leonard Hoffman stared in fascination at the prisoner.

Weger was seized by deputies Wednesday night, confessed bludgeoning the three women early Thursday, re-enacted the foray later in the day, and was indicted Friday by a panel of 15 women and six men.

Chrysler To Discontinue Production Of De Soto

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. finally gave up Friday on the De Soto and announced suspension of production of the medium-price car, effective Nov. 30.

In the 32 years since it was introduced by Walter Chrysler, De Soto has sold just over two million cars. One million still are in operation. But sales dropped spectacularly after 1957 and had dwindled almost into oblivion in recent months.

The corporation blamed shifts in market patterns, the general buying trend away from the medium price field in favor of less expensive, economy-type cars.

But shifts within the Chrysler family of cars indicate the corporation had planned well in advance for the final discontinuance.

In the 1960 model year Dodge was moved from the medium-price field to the so-called low-price field with the introduction of the Dodge Dart. De Soto was trimmed to two series of six cars. The convertible and station wagon disappeared.

For 1961 Chrysler Division offered a new, lower-price series called the Newport, priced right where De Soto had tried to sell. De Soto was trimmed to two cars, a two-door hardtop and a four-door hardtop. Except for the front grille these were almost identical to the Newport series.

A Chrysler official, asked in September about the Newport's chances in a field where De Soto was failing, replied: 'De Soto is dead." Chrysler Division says its sales of 1961 models are up 50 per cent over last year, with Newport accounting for 52 per cent of the business.

GOP Will Make Check Of Votes In Eight States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican campaign officials Friday ordered field checks which might lead to vote recounts in eight states — and even possibly a turnabout victory for GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon.

The decision to send representatives into the eight states was reached by Leonard W. Hall, Robert H. Finch and Fred C. Scribner, top strategy planners in Nixon's campaign against apparently victorious Democrat John F. Kennedy.

Finch told an interviewer that Nixon, now resting in Florida, hadn't been consulted about the meeting that produced the decision to send GOP representatives into Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

About the time this was being announced, New Jersey Republicans moved for a recount in five counties where Kennedy rolled up a 139,000 plurality over Nixon. Kennedy won New Jersey and its 16 electoral votes by 21,800 votes.

AF Dependent Travel Abroad To End Feb. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Friday canceled all overseas travel after next Feb. 1 for dependents of its uniformed personnel.

It thus was the first of the three armed services to put teeth into President Eisenhower's order requiring a reduction of 284,000 in the number of women and children living abroad with the forces.

The Air Force informed its overseas and global commands of immediate action to halt issuance of dependent travel authorizations calling for overseas movement after Feb. 1.

In a message to commands in the United States, Air Force headquarters said military personnel on orders or alerted for foreign assignment "will be expected to comply with such orders." It said they will proceed without their families unless they have approved reservations calling for departure no later than the last day in January.

The Air Force said it recognized that exceptions "will have to be granted for humanitarian considerations, hardships and peculiarities of selected Air Force units."

The Navy Department, in a message signed by Secretary William B. Franke, voiced general support for the administration decision on dependents overseas.

In a message to all commands, the secretary said "It is imperative that command action be taken to impress on all Navy and Marine Corps personnel that these actions are vitally important to the welfare of our country."

Franke said detailed Navy plans are now in preparation under a general concept that the reduction will be gradual and carried out to a large extent by shortening overseas tours and by reducing the number of families going overseas.

Work On Space Rocket Facilities Halted By Strike

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A dispute over who should handle certain electrical work halted construction Friday on launch facilities for two giant space rockets, Saturn and Centaur.

National Labor Relations Board investigators are here to determine if the NLRB should issue an injunction against two striking unions—the International Brotherhood of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which directs the Saturn and Centaur programs, filed unfair labor practice charges against the union and asked the NLRB to grant an injunction to halt the strike. The charges were filed in Tampa.

The dispute began Monday when NASA brought in civil service employes to perform technical electrical work on equipment for the Saturn blockhouse.

Weger Indicted In Triple Slaying

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Rumpled Chester O. Weger, 21, was formally accused Friday of a shocking Starved Rock Park triple slaying and other crimes.

His eyes were downcast as he was handed copies of indictments charging that he murdered three Chicago women March 14 in a rugged canyon of the scenic nature spot.

Most of the curious who crowded the circuit courtroom of Judge Leonard Hoffman stared in fascination at the prisoner.

Weger was seized by deputies Wednesday night, confessed bludgeoning the three women early Thursday, re-enacted the foray later in the day, and was indicted Friday by a panel of 15 women and six men.

Chrysler To Discontinue Production Of De Soto

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. finally gave up Friday on the De Soto and announced suspension of production of the medium-price car, effective Nov. 30.

In the 32 years since it was introduced by Walter Chrysler, De Soto has sold just over two million cars. One million still are in operation. But sales dropped spectacularly after 1957 and had dwindled almost into oblivion in recent months.

The corporation blamed shifts in market patterns, the general buying trend away from the medium price field in favor of less expensive, economy-type cars.

But shifts within the Chrysler family of cars indicate the corporation had planned well in advance for the final discontinuance.

In the 1960 model year Dodge was moved from the medium-price field to the so-called low-price field with the introduction of the Dodge Dart. De Soto was trimmed to two series of six cars. The convertible and station wagon disappeared.

For 1961 Chrysler Division offered a new, lower-price series called the Newport, priced right where De Soto had tried to sell. De Soto was trimmed to two cars, a two-door hardtop and a four-door hardtop. Except for the front grille these were almost identical to the Newport series.

A Chrysler official, asked in September about the Newport's chances in a field where De Soto was failing, replied: 'De Soto is dead." Chrysler Division says its sales of 1961 models are up 50 per cent over last year, with Newport accounting for 52 per cent of the business.

Laos Premier Will Team Up With Pro-Reds

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Faced with the mounting strength of rightist rebels, neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma agreed Friday to take the Communist-led Pathet Lao into a coalition regime.

Then Souvanna took off for San Neua in northeast Laos, apparently to confer with Prince Souvanna Vong, his half-brother who leads the Pathet Lao.

Once before, when he was entrusted with the premiership in 1956, Souvanna patched up a truce with his half-brother that halted the civil war for a time.

But now his approach to the Pathet Lao may only intensify civil strife. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, head of the rightist rebel regime, has sworn to drive the Pathet Lao guerrillas from this Asian kingdom.

The hard-pressed premier appeared to be turning toward the Communists because of the pressure frome Phoumi, who, he charges, is backed by the United States.

A communique announcing agreement to the formation of a coalition government did not say when it would be formed or give the extent of Pathet Lao participation.

The government said it will appeal to Communist China and Communist North Viet Nam for economic aid. Souvanna's government accepted in principle an offer of such aid from the Soviet Union last month.

Judges Defer New Orleans School Ruling

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Three federal judges refused Friday to decide immediately whether to return segregation to the public schools. They left integration the law in this strife-torn Southern city.

The judges adjourned a three-hour hearing with all integration orders intact. They indicated a ruling on the massive assembly of litigation surrounding the five-day-old school integration is likely in a few days.

While integration was still in effect, New Orleans hoped for a week of surcease and quiet. The state's public schools will be closed next week while teachers attend a state convention. The school break extends through the Thanksgiving holidays.

The possibility was raised that the following Monday — Nov. 28 — could see integration extended to New Orleans' large Catholic parochial school system as well.

The New Orleans States-Item said Friday the Catholic schools will admit Negro pupils to the first grade on that date if public schools remain integrated.

Catholic officials, however, quickly replied that no date had been set.

While the judges made haste slowly in the complex hearing Friday morning, several miles toward the eastern rim of the city, four little Negro girls sat in classes at two previously all-white elementary schools.

A white boycott put them in near - segregation despite the legal victories of the integrationists.

New Orleans has been shaken by a series of disorders since integration began Monday. More than 1,000 white demonstrators clashed with police Wednesday. Fire hoses had to be brought into play to disperse the unruly crowd.

Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asked the judges to reject the appeal of the Orleans Parish (New Orleans) School Board to suspend integration.

Marshall contended the board was asking that "the rights of these little Negro girls be given up."

Samuel I. Rosenberg, school board attorney, said the legal battle between the state and federal governments "is not the fight of the Orleans Parish School Board."

He asked that either integration be suspended or the school board be protected from the state.

The Louisiana Legislature has fired four of the five members of the board and city School Supt. James F. Redmond and turned the duties of the board over to a legislative committee.

Britain Ends Draft

LONDON (AP) — Britain ended the draft Friday and freed civilians from military obligations for the first time in 21 years. Compulsory military service had existed without a break since 1939.

John Hare, Minister of labor and national service, announced the windup in the House of Commons.

Auto, Truck Crash; 5 Die

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — Five persons were killed Friday in a head-on collision of an automobile and a pickup truck west of Brandon.

The highway patrol identified the dead, all passengers in the automobile, as Mrs. Gayther F. Cole, 32, and her two daughters, Cathy, 3, and Barbara, 1; Mrs. V. Q. Cole Jr., 34, of Rankin County; and Minerva Mage of Puckett, their maid.

Sherry Jean Cole, 2, a daughter of Mrs. W. Q. Cole; and Luther B. Shows, 49, and George Holloway, 74, of Mendenhall were injured critically.

Investigating officers said the collision occurred when Shows, driving the pickup truck, attempted to pass two other vehicles.

Gang Kingpin Gets Six Years

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago gang lord Tony Accardo was sentenced to six years in prison Friday on the same charge that nailed Al Capone—income tax evasion.

He was also ordered to pay $15,000 in fines for trying to get away with a two-bit tax dodge.

Accardo, who had been untouchable as far as the law was concerned throughout a long life in the rackets, was convicted of writing off $3,995 in expense for his little red sports car as business deductions.

Accardo contended he used the flashy Mercedes-Benz auto in his role as an honest beer salesman. The government argued Accardo never sold an honest bottle of beer in his life, but used the salesman's job as a coverup for huge illegal profits.

In imposing sentence, Federal Judge Julius J. Hoffman denounced Accardo as a kingpin in organized gambling—"an industry managed in secret by the underworld, powered by bribery and annually yielding an enormous and intolerable national product of degredation, misery and violence."

Painter Loses His Long Fight To Remain In U.S.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — William A. Mackie Friday lost his long fight against deportation.

As relatives sobbed by the runway, Immigration Service officials put the hollow - cheeked house painter aboard an airliner and he was off for Finland.

"This is going to be an interesting trip, but I hope the American people will bring me home pretty soon," said Mackie, 51, of Portland, who was accused by the government of being a Communist in the 1930s. He denied it.

Mackie wore a borrowed overcoat as he tried to comfort relatives and then walked across the runway to the airliner on a chill, cloudy morning. He said he had only $85 in his pocket and had no idea of what he will do when he gets to Finland. He speaks only a few words of Finnish and said he knows no one there.

At San Francisco, before Mackie started the Pan American polar flight to Europe, he was given the coat of a man whose abortive deportation drew worldwide attention.

Mackie was met at the San Francisco airport by Mrs. William Heikkila, whose husband was arrested on a San Francisco street in 1958, rushed by plane to Finland — then brought back when it was disclosed court action still was pending.

Heikkila died before his case could be concluded.

Fifty persons were at the airport in Portland to tell Mackie goodbye and protest the deportation. Among them was Hamish Scott MacKay, 55, of Portland, scheduled to be deported Friday night to his native Canada.

CIA Director Briefs Kennedy On Red Menace

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy received a secret briefing Friday on the Communist menace that has U. S. warships and planes ready to strike in the Caribbean.

Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency and his deputy, Richard Bissell, provided the briefing at Kennedy's request.

Kennedy had asked them to do so even before President Eisenhower ordered an aircraft carrier, four destroyers and two long-range aircraft on patrol in response to appeals from Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Eisenhower's action Thursday followed attempted revolts which Guatemala and Nicaragua claimed were led by supporters of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. It was a definite warning to both Cuba and the Soviet Union to stay away from the rest of Latin America.

Dulles and Bissell brought two large folders, presumably containing maps, charts and top secret documents, to the president-elect's ocean-front vacation retreat. The three men sat in the sun in lawn chairs, looking out over the Atlantic for the 2-hour, 40-minute briefing.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, gave that picture to newsmen, along with word that: "They discussed a wide range of matters, one of which was the situation in Central America."

Both Kennedy and Dulles were silent on their appraisal of Caribbean trouble spots.

Saturday, the man who will be the next president will be digging into a question somewhat related to the Caribbean worry—whether the Defense Department organization is strong enough to perform its mission in an uneasy world.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former Air Force secretary now mentioned for secretary of defense, was commissioned by Kennedy to draft a report of this topic. Also a Florida vacationer, Symington will go over the report with Kennedy during the weekend.

AF To Conduct Gable Services

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Air Force will conduct private funeral services with full military honors for Clark Gable Saturday, his studio announced Friday.

Pallbearers will include Spencer Tracy, James Stewart and Robert Taylor.

The screen's top star, who died Wednesday night at 59 of a second heart attack within 10 days, served in the Army Air Corps in World War II.

Quietly enlisting as a private, Gable attended officer's candidate school, earned his wings as a gunner, and in Europe won the Air Medal for exceptionally meritorious achievement in five combat bomber missions. He was discharged a major.

Air Force Secretary Dudley Sharp has appointed Lt. Col. James D. Hunter to represent him at the funeral at 9 a.m. Saturday, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer said. The rites will be in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn Memorial Park at nearby Glendale, with Chaplain Johnson E. West of March Air Force Base officiating.

Four Convicted Robbers Given Long Sentences

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Four out-of-state men were convicted of armed robbery charges Friday and sentenced to the Maryland Penitentiary for terms ranging from 15 to 20 years.

A Howard County Circuit Court jury deliberated less than two hours before returning guilty verdicts on five counts each against Willie C. Williams, 35, of Newark, N. J.; Charles Graves, 35, of East Orange, N. J.; James C. Toland, 55, of Washington, D. C., and Johnny D. Boyd, 43, of Newark. All are Negroes.

Williams and Graves were each sentenced to 20 years on each count, Toland to 18 and Boyd to 15. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Judge James Macgill imposed the sentences. Williams and Graves, who were given the heavier sentences, each had ben convicted previously on armed robbery charges. Toland also has a police record but Boyd has none.

Judge Macgill set appeal bond at $50,000 each, but defense attorneys did not immediately indicate whether they plan an appeal. All four defendants were returned to the Howard County Jail.

The four men convicted and a fifth man were charged with entering the Sparton club near Frederick with pistols and a shotgun last April and robbing patrons of about $9,500. Witnesses testified gambling was going on at the club at the time.

The fifth defendant, Benjamin Greif, 51, of New York, is in a Washington hospital and was granted a separate trial.

Maj. Wilson, a native of Princess Anne who is married to Gov. Tawes' only daughter, Jimmie Lee, was listed as one of 12 passengers aboard the Air Force KC135 Strato-Tanker that was returning from an overnight fueling mission.

Killed in the crash was Capt. Homer G. Bonin, 27, on a temporary assignment from Bunker Hill AFB at Peru, Ind. Capt. Bonin, a passenger on the flight, was a native of Strubridge, Mass.

Tate, who has a record of armed robbery, parole violation and prison escape, is sought under a federal warrant for the June 23, 1960, shotgun robbery of a Newark, N.J., bank.

Pressman Will File Suit In Potomac Pact Referendum Battle

Seeks Finan's Appearance At Hearing

BALTIMORE (AP) — An attorney for Southern Maryland watermen said Friday he would file suit after Nov. 30 in the running fight over a public referendum on the Potomac River Compact.

Attorney Hyman Pressman of Baltimore mentioned the future action as he made a double-barreled, preliminary legal move in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Pressman asked for a subpoena to have Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan appear for a hearing in Finan's office at 10 a. m. Nov. 28. He also served official notice that a deposition — advance testimony —would be taken from Finan on that date concerning advance advertising of the referendum.

The proposed compact between Maryland and Virginia would govern fisheries on the Potomac River which separates the states. Maryland voters approved it in the Nov. 8 general election.

Pressman contends the referendum was not properly advertised and has promised an immediate court test.

The papers he filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court Friday named Gov. J. Millard Tawes a defendant, as well as Finan. The documents said oral testimony of the deposition would be taken before Notary Public Carol S. McCarthy.

They were filed on behalf of watermen James Leroy Thompson and Robert Garrett Russell, both of River Springs, St. Marys County, and Thomas Shymanski of Cobb Island, Charles County. In the current fight, Pressman represents watermen's associations in both counties bordering the river.

Pressman said the subpoena already had been issued by the clerk of Anne Arundel Circuit Court and all that remained was for the sheriff to serve it.

Asked if it were possible Finan would refuse to give testmony although answering the subpoena, Pressman said: "I spoke to Mr. Finan and he doesn't intend to refuse."

The request for subpoena stipulated that Finan have with him Nov. 28 all certificates of publication and other records showing where and when all other proposed constitutional amendments on the Nov. 8 ballot were advertised, as well as publication records on the compact referendum.

Finan had said he planned no formal action on the controversy until the State Board of Canvassers certifies Maryland election returns Nov. 30.

The proposed compact would set up a bi-state commission for regulating the Maryland-owned river. Already approved by the legislatures of both states, it would replace one of 1785 which Maryland declared void in 1957.

"Sudden Death" Of Russian Test Pilot Reported

MOSCOW (AP) — The "sudden death" of one of the Soviet Union's top test pilots, Col. Alexander G. Vaselchenko, was reported here Friday. The formal announcement in Red Star, organ of the Red Army, gave no details of how or when he died.

Vaselchenko, 49, has been flying since 1936 and had been a test pilot 17 years. Red Star said he had pioneered 20 types of planes.

Fallon Backs Funk Toll Road Proposal

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposal of State Roads Commission Chairman John B. Funk to use federal money for toll road construction gained support Friday from the chairman of the House subcommittee on roads.

"It seems like a good way to get roads built faster and make the federal dollar go further," Rep. George H. Fallon, D-Md., said. He described the plan as "a pretty good idea, if we can make it work."

Funk made the suggestion in a New York speech Monday. The proposal since has won qualified endorsement from Ellis L. Armstrong, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, which is supervising development of the 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

Silva was convicted of second degree murder Wednesday in Dorchester County Circuit Court. Sentence was imposed by Chief Judge W. Laird Henry.

Shoes Provide Lead In Boy's Brutal Slaying

SEAT PLEASANT, Md. (AP)—A pair of black, rubber-soled shoes provided police Friday with their first lead in the slaying of seven-year-old Michael Condetti.

An unidentified caller notified police he had seen the shoes not far from the boy's home in northeast Washington.

The body of the youngster was found by a hunter late Thursday in a wooded section near Ardmore in Prince Georges County, near the District of Columbia line.

A squad of Washington detectives had ben looking for the shoes when police got the call. The shoes were found tied and neatly placed together near a curb.

Capt Charles L. Langley of the Washington police theorozed someone had seen the shoes lying in the street and had put them side by side in the gutter.

It may have been in that area, police said, that Michael was seized.

Meanwhile, Prince Georges County police questioned a middle-aged man who, they said, lived near the wooded area where the body was found. They said the man had a collection of pictures of a perverted nature.

County Police chief George J. Panagoulis said an autopsy showed the boy died of suffocation. "We don't know just when or where he was killed," he said.

The boy's neck was severely bruised and dirt clogged his throat and mouth. The body was nude except for socks and a cross hanging from a chain around the neck. The boy had been dead at least 24 hours and possibly since Monday night, Panagoulis said.

Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine J. Condetti, left home Monday afternoon to purchase a bookbag at a variety store.

Undercover Man Who Helped Nail Capone Buried

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the nation's unsung heroes — the undercover Treasury agent who greased the skids which carried Al Capone to a federal prison—was buried Friday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Mike Malone posed as a stickup man from Philadelphia to infiltrate Capone's Chicago headquarters — the Lexington Hotel just south of the Loop—during the prohibition era when gangland's king pin seemed above the law.

Malone accepted Capone's spiced peppered steaks, and the information that floated around the gangster's fourth-floor command post. Then, after months of camaraderie, the agent stripped off his disguise for the trial that toppled Public Enemy No. 1.

A swarthy Irishman who was an aviator in World War I, Malone died last week at the age of 66 at St. Paul, Minn. Death ended a 40-year career as an ace investigator for the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue service.

In the time of William the Conqueror it was a criminal offense to cut timber in the forests.

Bertorelli, chairman of a council committee on retail instalment sales, said Friday customers are "being taken for millions of dollars every year under the guise of service charges."

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 22-year-old woman accused of the butcher knife stabbing of an elderly neighbor last June was sentenced Friday to 15 years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

The sentence was imposed against Miss Elizabeth Mae Kraushar, convicted of second degree murder in the death of Leo A. Doyle, 69, a bank guard and retired railroad worker.

Miss Kraushar became hysterical when the sentence was announced by Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast in Criminal Court. She had to be carried from the courtroom. A group of relatives, including her mother, were ushered from the court, shouting and screaming.

Testimony at the trial in September was offered to show the stabbing occurred as Miss Kraushar's father and Doyle were struggling with each other.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gerald Bernstein, operator of a sporting goods store, was indicted Friday by a Baltimore grand jury which accused him of the illegal sale of firearms to an Italian seaman, Gaetano Schena of Genoa. Schena, arrested Nov. 10 with 10 guns in his possession, has been held under $1,000 bail as a State's witness.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police Friday were investigating the fatal stabbings of two 49-year-old men in separate incidents.

One of the victims, Richard E. Harms, a barber, was found dead outside a waiting station at the end of a street car line in Catonsville Thursday. Police said he apparently was killed in an attempted robbery although officials estimated Harms had less than a dollar on his person at the time he was attacked.

The other victim was Louis Thornton, a Negro, who was stabbed in the chest and was dead on arrival at Provident Hospital Thursday.

T-Men Seize 82 In Widespread Gambling Raids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury agents raided nearly 100 gambling places in 45 cities across the nation Friday in a crackdown on gamblers suspected of failing to pay federal gambling taxes.

In a precision move, agents of the Internal Revenue Service's intelligence division simultaneously hit gambling houses from coast-to-coast at 3:15 p.m. EST.

By 7 p.m. EST, 82 arrests had been made in raids on 91 gambling places in 40 cities. In addition, more than $50,000 in gambling money had been confiscated.

The coordinated sweep was the second in about seven weeks. A federal dragnet Sept. 28 resulted in 123 arrests.

Agents were looking for gamblers suspected of failing to pay one or more of three taxes: a $50 occupational tax all gamblers must pay; a $250 levy on coin-operated gambling devices, such as slot machines and a tax of 10 per cent on gross gambling revenue.

First reports reaching Internal Revenue headquarters listed five persons arrested in New York City — two in Manhattan, two in Brooklyn, and one in the Astoria section of Queens. Agents in New York seized cash totaling $1,831 and two cars.

Persons convicted of failing to buy the $50 occupational tax stamp can be sentenced up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine. For evading the 10 per cent receipts tax, the maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

For failing to buy a $250 tax stamp for gambling devices persons can be fined up to $5,000.

In Pennsylvania, agents arrested three people in Philadelphia, six in Pittsburgh, four in North Braddock and two in McKeesport.

In Baltimore six persons were arrested. Agents there also seized two cars and $700 in cash.

Agents arrested one person each in Atlanta, Coral Gables, Fla., and Natchez, Miss.

The proposed compact between Maryland and Virginia would govern fisheries on the Potomac River which separates the states. Maryland voters approved it in the Nov. 8 general election.

Pressman contends the referendum was not properly advertised and has promised an immediate court test.

The papers he filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court Friday named Gov. J. Millard Tawes a defendant, as well as Finan. The documents said oral testimony of the deposition would be taken before Notary Public Carol S. McCarthy.

They were filed on behalf of watermen James Leroy Thompson and Robert Garrett Russell, both of River Springs, St. Marys County, and Thomas Shymanski of Cobb Island, Charles County. In the current fight, Pressman represents watermen's associations in both counties bordering the river.

Pressman said the subpoena already had been issued by the clerk of Anne Arundel Circuit Court and all that remained was for the sheriff to serve it.

Asked if it were possible Finan would refuse to give testmony although answering the subpoena, Pressman said: "I spoke to Mr. Finan and he doesn't intend to refuse."

The request for subpoena stipulated that Finan have with him Nov. 28 all certificates of publication and other records showing where and when all other proposed constitutional amendments on the Nov. 8 ballot were advertised, as well as publication records on the compact referendum.

Finan had said he planned no formal action on the controversy until the State Board of Canvassers certifies Maryland election returns Nov. 30.

The proposed compact would set up a bi-state commission for regulating the Maryland-owned river. Already approved by the legislatures of both states, it would replace one of 1785 which Maryland declared void in 1957.

"Sudden Death" Of Russian Test Pilot Reported

MOSCOW (AP) — The "sudden death" of one of the Soviet Union's top test pilots, Col. Alexander G. Vaselchenko, was reported here Friday. The formal announcement in Red Star, organ of the Red Army, gave no details of how or when he died.

Vaselchenko, 49, has been flying since 1936 and had been a test pilot 17 years. Red Star said he had pioneered 20 types of planes.

Fallon Backs Funk Toll Road Proposal

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposal of State Roads Commission Chairman John B. Funk to use federal money for toll road construction gained support Friday from the chairman of the House subcommittee on roads.

"It seems like a good way to get roads built faster and make the federal dollar go further," Rep. George H. Fallon, D-Md., said. He described the plan as "a pretty good idea, if we can make it work."

Funk made the suggestion in a New York speech Monday. The proposal since has won qualified endorsement from Ellis L. Armstrong, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, which is supervising development of the 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

Three Killed On Md. Highways

By The Associated Press

Three persons died in Maryland traffic accidents Friday, boosting the state's 1960 highway fatality toll to 454.

The traffic death count on the same date last year was 463.

A 5-year-old Baltimore boy, John Wilfong, was fatally injured when he was struck by a tow truck at a city intersection. Police said he apparently ran in front of the truck.

James Almony, 59, of White Hall, was killed in a three-car collision on the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway near Catonsville in Baltimore County.

Joseph Culotta, 34, of Baltimore was fatally injured when his car went out of control and hit a pole along U. S. 40 year Baltimore.

Silva Gets 15 Years

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Walter William Silva, 37-year-old laborer, was sentenced Friday to 15 years in the Maryland Penitentiary for the slaying of his wife.

Silva was convicted of second degree murder Wednesday in Dorchester County Circuit Court. Sentence was imposed by Chief Judge W. Laird Henry.

The body of his 23-year-old wife, Katheryn Joyce Silva, was found last Feb. 13 in a motel near Salisbury. He had arrived from California only a few hours earlier.

Shoes Provide Lead In Boy's Brutal Slaying

SEAT PLEASANT, Md. (AP)—A pair of black, rubber-soled shoes provided police Friday with their first lead in the slaying of seven-year-old Michael Condetti.

An unidentified caller notified police he had seen the shoes not far from the boy's home in northeast Washington.

The body of the youngster was found by a hunter late Thursday in a wooded section near Ardmore in Prince Georges County, near the District of Columbia line.

A squad of Washington detectives had ben looking for the shoes when police got the call. The shoes were found tied and neatly placed together near a curb.

Capt Charles L. Langley of the Washington police theorozed someone had seen the shoes lying in the street and had put them side by side in the gutter.

It may have been in that area, police said, that Michael was seized.

Meanwhile, Prince Georges County police questioned a middle-aged man who, they said, lived near the wooded area where the body was found. They said the man had a collection of pictures of a perverted nature.

County Police chief George J. Panagoulis said an autopsy showed the boy died of suffocation. "We don't know just when or where he was killed," he said.

The boy's neck was severely bruised and dirt clogged his throat and mouth. The body was nude except for socks and a cross hanging from a chain around the neck. The boy had been dead at least 24 hours and possibly since Monday night, Panagoulis said.

Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine J. Condetti, left home Monday afternoon to purchase a bookbag at a variety store.

Undercover Man Who Helped Nail Capone Buried

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the nation's unsung heroes — the undercover Treasury agent who greased the skids which carried Al Capone to a federal prison—was buried Friday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Mike Malone posed as a stickup man from Philadelphia to infiltrate Capone's Chicago headquarters — the Lexington Hotel just south of the Loop—during the prohibition era when gangland's king pin seemed above the law.

Malone accepted Capone's spiced peppered steaks, and the information that floated around the gangster's fourth-floor command post. Then, after months of camaraderie, the agent stripped off his disguise for the trial that toppled Public Enemy No. 1.

A swarthy Irishman who was an aviator in World War I, Malone died last week at the age of 66 at St. Paul, Minn. Death ended a 40-year career as an ace investigator for the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue service.

In the time of William the Conqueror it was a criminal offense to cut timber in the forests.

McKAY SEES MACKIE — On hand at Portland, Ore., airport yesterday was Hamish Scott McKay (center), 55, to see William A. Mackie, who left for deportation to Finland. McKay, who was scheduled for deportation last night to Canada, and Mackie had waged an unsuccessful eight-year fight against deportation as accused Communists under the McCarran-Walters Act. McKay is shown here during a press interview with his wife, Anna Belle, 55, and his 17-year-old son Ronnie, who is co-captain on his high school football team. (AP Photofax)

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Legislative Council study on a proposal to license and regulate all instalment sales contracts has been scheduled by Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli, D-Balto 1st.

Bertorelli, chairman of a council committee on retail instalment sales, said Friday customers are "being taken for millions of dollars every year under the guise of service charges."

He said a meeting of his committee would be called within 10 days to consider a report submitted by John W. Dallam, administrator of the State's small loan laws.

WHITEFORD, Md. (AP)—State Police were called to the Whiteford sewing factory Friday to investigate a report a bomb had been planted at the company, which employs 150 persons. No bomb was found.

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 22-year-old woman accused of the butcher knife stabbing of an elderly neighbor last June was sentenced Friday to 15 years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

The sentence was imposed against Miss Elizabeth Mae Kraushar, convicted of second degree murder in the death of Leo A. Doyle, 69, a bank guard and retired railroad worker.

Miss Kraushar became hysterical when the sentence was announced by Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast in Criminal Court. She had to be carried from the courtroom. A group of relatives, including her mother, were ushered from the court, shouting and screaming.

Testimony at the trial in September was offered to show the stabbing occurred as Miss Kraushar's father and Doyle were struggling with each other.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gerald Bernstein, operator of a sporting goods store, was indicted Friday by a Baltimore grand jury which accused him of the illegal sale of firearms to an Italian seaman, Gaetano Schena of Genoa. Schena, arrested Nov. 10 with 10 guns in his possession, has been held under $1,000 bail as a State's witness.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police Friday were investigating the fatal stabbings of two 49-year-old men in separate incidents.

One of the victims, Richard E. Harms, a barber, was found dead outside a waiting station at the end of a street car line in Catonsville Thursday. Police said he apparently was killed in an attempted robbery although officials estimated Harms had less than a dollar on his person at the time he was attacked.

The other victim was Louis Thornton, a Negro, who was stabbed in the chest and was dead on arrival at Provident Hospital Thursday.

The board adopted a resolution saying, "There shall be no racial discrimination in the admission of qualified students to the University of Tennessee."

The first Negro students will be admitted in January at the beginning of the winter quarter.

The university's graduate school and law college have been desegregated since 1952.

T-Men Seize 82 In Widespread Gambling Raids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury agents raided nearly 100 gambling places in 45 cities across the nation Friday in a crackdown on gamblers suspected of failing to pay federal gambling taxes.

In a precision move, agents of the Internal Revenue Service's intelligence division simultaneously hit gambling houses from coast-to-coast at 3:15 p.m. EST.

By 7 p.m. EST, 82 arrests had been made in raids on 91 gambling places in 40 cities. In addition, more than $50,000 in gambling money had been confiscated.

The coordinated sweep was the second in about seven weeks. A federal dragnet Sept. 28 resulted in 123 arrests.

Agents were looking for gamblers suspected of failing to pay one or more of three taxes: a $50 occupational tax all gamblers must pay; a $250 levy on coin-operated gambling devices, such as slot machines and a tax of 10 per cent on gross gambling revenue.

First reports reaching Internal Revenue headquarters listed five persons arrested in New York City — two in Manhattan, two in Brooklyn, and one in the Astoria section of Queens. Agents in New York seized cash totaling $1,831 and two cars.

Persons convicted of failing to buy the $50 occupational tax stamp can be sentenced up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine. For evading the 10 per cent receipts tax, the maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

For failing to buy a $250 tax stamp for gambling devices persons can be fined up to $5 000.

In Pennsylvania, agents arrested three people in Philadelphia, six in Pittsburgh, four in North Braddock and two in McKeesport.

In Baltimore six persons were arrested. Agents there also seized two cars and $700 in cash.

Agents arrested one person each in Atlanta, Coral Gables, Fla., and Natchez, Miss.

Desk-ercises

Wed to your desk . . . with the spread to prove it? So sedentary that the merest hint of exercise leaves you absolutely "bushed"? Then what you need is something to restore the snap to your muscles . . . and it can be easier and quicker than you think. You start your muscle-strengthening program right at your desk.

You see, one good muscular contraction, held for several seconds, is enough to tighten that muscle to its full increased capacity for that day. Repetition may develop muscular skill or endurance. Repetition may burn up calories for weightwatchers. But for sheer strength and for the follow-up flow of energy that enables you to work and to exercise with greater zest, once daily is enough.

Apply this tremendous surge of pressure to whatever muscles appear flabby and weak, particularly to the arms, legs and back that tire so quickly and ache so often.

As you sit at your desk, hook a towel or scarf behind your neck. Have your hands pull the ends forward with steady force while your head and upper body push backward. Hold this line of resistance for six seconds, just once a day, for stronger muscles in the upper back.

For the lower back and abdominal muscles, hook the towel around the small of your back and push against it by tightening the muscles of your tummy and buttocks. Hold this for two seconds . . . and take it easy the first couple of weeks.

For shoulders and arms, place palms up under your desk and press upward until the muscles of your upper arms are full contracted. Hold this stress for at least six seconds.

For legs, particularly stronger thighs, sit with your chair four inches back of your knees and hook your feet below your desk. Straighten your legs so that the weight of your body is supported by the edge of the chair . . . and grasp the arms of the chair for greater pull on your trunk. Hold it for six seconds, then relax. Standing, hook your heels below an open lower desk drawer and raise upward until you feel pressure on the muscles below your thigh.

As those muscles strengthen, keep them up to par. Always use your knees (not your hands and arms) to lower yourself into your chair or to rise from it. Push your feet square against the floor for balance . . . and let your muscles do the work.

And use those legs for just what they are . . . transportation! Enroute to work, get off the bus a block or two ahead of your stop and walk the rest of the way. Get off the elevator at the wrong floor . . . and climb to the office. After a few weeks of muscle-strengthening, you'll begin to feel that old spring again . . . enough to last all winter.

For the lower back and abdominal muscles, hook the towel around the small of your back and push against it by tightening the muscles of your tummy and buttocks. Hold this for two seconds . . . and take it easy the first couple of weeks.

For shoulders and arms, place palms up under your desk and press upward until the muscles of your upper arms are full contracted. Hold this stress for at least six seconds.

For legs, particularly stronger thighs, sit with your chair four inches back of your knees and hook your feet below your desk. Straighten your legs so that the weight of your body is supported by the edge of the chair . . . and grasp the arms of the chair for greater pull on your trunk. Hold it for six seconds, then relax. Standing, hook your heels below an open lower desk drawer and raise upward until you feel pressure on the muscles below your thigh.

As those muscles strengthen, keep them up to par. Always use your knees (not your hands and arms) to lower yourself into your chair or to rise from it. Push your feet square against the floor for balance . . . and let your muscles do the work.

And use those legs for just what they are . . . transportation! Enroute to work, get off the bus a block or two ahead of your stop and walk the rest of the way. Get off the elevator at the wrong floor . . . and climb to the office. After a few weeks of muscle-strengthening, you'll begin to feel that old spring again . . . enough to last all winter.

Millions To Take Part In Worldwide Bible Reading Starting Thanksgiving Day

By Central Press

IN THE LAST HALF of the 1800s there lived in China a man named Samuel Isaac Joseph Schereschewsky, who had gone there from America as a missionary and to translate the Bible, and who became a bishop of the Episcopal Church.

One of the things that impressed this man very much was that if you lived in one city in China, you could not understand someone from another place. In every city people spoke differently. A man from Shanghai could not understand the words of a man from Peking or from Canton.

Bishop Schereschewsky worked very hard for many years, and much of his translation work was printed and distributed among the people of China. But he was not satisfied. What he really wanted was one Bible in a language that most of the people could read.

There was such a language; it was called Easy Wenli. Unfortunately, before the bishop could start on this translation, he suffered a sunstroke which left him paralyzed. Everyone thought he never would be able to work again.

Although he could not move and had to spend his days in a wheel chair, he worked even harder than before—eight or more hours a day. He found that he was able to use the middle finger of his right hand to press the keys of a typewriter. Sometimes instead of his finger he used a stick to tap out the letters, one by one.

And this was how he worked every day, until over 10 years later he had filled more than 2,500 large pages with words, and the Easy Wenli translation of the entire Bible was finished.

Shortly after, the American Bible Society undertook to publish this new Bible, and it was ready for distribution in 1902.

Now at last more Chinese than ever before were able to read the Word of God in their own Bible.

Between 1949 and 1955 more than three and one-half million volumes of Scripture were distributed in China by the China Bible House. Even though fellowship with its Chinese friends has been interrupted, the American Bible Society continues to pray for the success of the Bible cause in China.

Although the Chinese no longer can receive the Scripture, it is safe to assume that many in that country will be united in spirit with millions throughout the world who will take part in Worldwide Bible Reading, a program sponsored by the American Bible Society, which begins on Thanksgiving Day and will continue until Christmas.

During the holidays, people in 50 countries will read the same passage of the Bible on the same days. This tremendous "Bible reading class" got its start during the war when a lonely young Marine on Guadalcanal wrote his family asking that they read the same Scriptural passage with him each day.

This year, the Bible Society also is hoping that millions of families in the United States and elsewhere will read the story of the birth and childhood of Jesus as told in the Gospel according to Saint Luke.

TO GIVE THANKS

Danny and Tess took part in the Thanksgiving tableau at school last week, and they did a good job. As I looked at them, I thought of the real Pilgrim children and that first Thanksgiving.

Our forefathers weren't inoculated against childhood illnesses. They didn't have miracle drugs and warm clothes. They certainly didn't have more than they could eat. They faced incredible hardships, with no bright toys for special rewards, no candy bars. But they knelt down in the cold with their parents and gave thanks to God just for being alive.

Can we do less today? Can we possibly do less, this Thanksgiving, than go to Church and humbly give thanks to our Creator for His wonderful gift of life?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Millions To Take Part In Worldwide Bible Reading Starting Thanksgiving Day

By Central Press

IN THE LAST HALF of the 1800s there lived in China a man named Samuel Isaac Joseph Schereschewsky, who had gone there from America as a missionary and to translate the Bible, and who became a bishop of the Episcopal Church.

One of the things that impressed this man very much was that if you lived in one city in China, you could not understand someone from another place. In every city people spoke differently. A man from Shanghai could not understand the words of a man from Peking or from Canton.

Bishop Schereschewsky worked very hard for many years, and much of his translation work was printed and distributed among the people of China. But he was not satisfied. What he really wanted was one Bible in a language that most of the people could read.

There was such a language; it was called Easy Wenli. Unfortunately, before the bishop could start on this translation, he suffered a sunstroke which left him paralyzed. Everyone thought he never would be able to work again.

Although he could not move and had to spend his days in a wheel chair, he worked even harder than before—eight or more hours a day. He found that he was able to use the middle finger of his right hand to press the keys of a typewriter. Sometimes instead of his finger he used a stick to tap out the letters, one by one.

And this was how he worked every day, until over 10 years later he had filled more than 2,500 large pages with words, and the Easy Wenli translation of the entire Bible was finished.

Shortly after, the American Bible Society undertook to publish this new Bible, and it was ready for distribution in 1902. Now at last more Chinese than ever before were able to read the Word of God in their own Bible.

Between 1949 and 1955 more than three and one-half million volumes of Scripture were distributed in China by the China Bible House. Even though fellowship with its Chinese friends has been interrupted, the American Bible Society continues to pray for the success of the Bible cause in China.

Although the Chinese no longer can receive the Scripture, it is safe to assume that many in that country will be united in spirit with millions throughout the world who will take part in Worldwide Bible Reading, a program sponsored by the American Bible Society, which begins on Thanksgiving Day and will continue until Christmas.

During the holidays, people in 50 countries will read the same passage of the Bible on the same days. This tremendous "Bible reading class" got its start during the war when a lonely young Marine on Guadalcanal wrote his family asking that they read the same Scriptural passage with him each day.

This year, the Bible Society also is hoping that millions of families in the United States and elsewhere will read the story of the birth and childhood of Jesus as told in the Gospel according to Saint Luke.

Danny and Tess took part in the Thanksgiving tableau at school last week, and they did a good job. As I looked at them, I thought of the real Pilgrim children and that first Thanksgiving.

Our forefathers weren't inoculated against childhood illnesses. They didn't have miracle drugs and warm clothes. They certainly didn't have more than they could eat. They faced incredible hardships, with no bright toys for special rewards, no candy bars. But they knelt down in the cold with their parents and gave thanks to God just for being alive.

Can we do less today? Can we possibly do less, this Thanksgiving, than go to Church and humbly give thanks to our Creator for His wonderful gift of life?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Issuing auto licenses at the Allegany County Court House is costing the county money, William B. Orndorff, county tax collector who is in charge of the distribution, told the Western Maryland County Commissioners Association Thursday at Hagerstown.

Orndorff explained the county system to the commissioners from Garrett, Washington, Carroll and Frederick Counties.

Washington, Carroll and Frederick do not distribute the tags locally, but Allegany and Garrett do.

He said 25,000 license plates are issued annually and the county receives a 15-cent fee to cover the cost of selling them.

But bookkeeping and handling charges amount to about $6,000, while the income from the fees is only $3,700.

The tax collector also noted that the Department of Motor Vehicles has to expend 39 cents in postage for each set of plates that is mailed from Baltimore.

The counties that handle the distribution for the DMV should get 39 cents each for doing the work, the county commissioners from Allegany County maintained.

After hearing the explanation, the commissioners of the four counties passed a resolution asking the DMV to allocate the counties handling tags a higher fee.

This resolution will be distributed among the various counties in the state and also will be sent to the DMV.

Any increase in the fees must call for a revision in the law by the General Assembly.

Another resolution requested the legislature to act favorably on the recently passed fifth amendment on the November 8 ballot.

This authorizes the General Assembly to empower the counties to condemn property for urban renewal purposes.

Earlier in the day, the 16 commissioners from the five counties heard Daniel B. Rohrer, executive secretary of the Washington County Economic Development Commission, tell of his department's work.

He said 350 companies in the United States will change locations this year, but there are 10,000 industry procurement units similar to Washington County's going after them.

Rohrer pointed out that the best tips on firms wanting new sites comes from the public. In fact, he added, the Washington County commission is currently dealing with a firm contacted by this means.

East Side PTA Program Tuesday

The East Side School Parent-Teacher Association will sponsor a program entitled "I Am An American" Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the school.

The skit will be presented by the Allegany County Homemakers Chorus and will deal with musical pantomine of early American days.

A bake sale will be held before and after the program by the home room mothers.

PTA To Meet

The Parent-Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul School will meet Sunday at 2 p. m. in the parish hall, according to P. Raymond Shaffer, president. Classroom visitation will follow the business meeting.

Future Road Jobs In County Are Outlined

FREDERICK (AP)—Staff members of the State Roads Commission went over their Western Maryland road building plans of the next 18 months Friday with representatives of utilities in the area.

It was the third in a series of four such informal sessions, which are not formal meetings of the commission.

SRC Director John B. Funk, Chief Engineer David H. Fisher and other SRC staff members talked over plans with representatives of the Potomac Edison Co., the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. and other utilities.

The SRC has work planned in Garrett, Allegany, Frederick and Washington counties for the next 18 months which will cost an estimated $27½ million.

A section of Interstate 81 near Hagerstown, which will connect U. S. 40 and U. S. 11, will be placed under contract in 1961. The work had been scheduled for 1962.

Also discussed was a five-year rebuilding project for U.S.40 from Sideling Hill to Keyser's Ridge.

Projects listed for Allegany County, along with the dates set for advertising for bids follow:

U. S. Route 40, Willowbrook Road to the west end of Nave's Road, one and one-half miles, January of 1961.

U. S. Route 40, Sideling Mountain to Town Hill Mountain, 2.1 miles, January of 1961.

U. S. Route 40, Fifteen Mile Creek to top of Polish Mountain, 3.7 miles, March 1961.

Industrial Boulevard Bridge, over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, August 1961.

Bridge over Fifteen Mile Creek, October 1961.

Maryland Route 135, Westernport, four-tenths of a mile, January 1962.

U. S. Route 40, Cat Point Road to Fifteen Mile Creek, 2.4 miles of dual highway, January 1962.

U.S. Route 40, Watson Road to Cat Point, five miles, February 1962.

Garrett County's project follow:

Maryland Route 42, Friendsville, two miles, February 1961.

U.S. Route 219, Bridge at Bear Creek, December of 1961.

U.S. Route 219, Keyser Ridge towards Accident, four miles, January 1962.

Maryland Route 38, west of Kitzmiller toward Maryland Route 135, one mile, February 1962.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't throw this letter away as a "silly kid problem." I need help.

I'm 15, a fellow, and have just started to go to school dances. I'm not a very hot dancer but I'm trying to improve. My big problem is, what does a guy talk to a girl about besides school and the weather when they are dancing?

I try a lot of different subjects, but they fall flat and I feel like a goof. To top it all off, my dancing gets lousy, too. Please help me. — STUMBLING AND TONGUE TIED

DEAR STUMBLING: A wise man once said it's better to remain silent and be thought a fool, than to open your mouth and remove all doubt.

Nobody expects a 15-year-old kid to be a combination of Mortimer Adler and Fred Astaire. Forget about jazzy conversation on the dance floor. When you dance—dance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister has three children whom she calls "active and normal." I say they are undisciplined and rude.

The oldest is 12, a boy. He doesn't stand up when introduced to older people. He interrupts adult conversations and takes right over. The girl, 10, never says "please" or "thank you." It's always "gimme" this or that. Her table manners are atrocious: I realize a 10-year-old is far from an adult but she's old enough to know better than to stuff food into her mouth with both hands and ignore the silver completely.

The youngest who is six behaves like a jungle animal. I could write a book on this one. When I recently told my sister she'd better do something about her kids she became furious and said, "I hate trained monkeys. I want MY children to be natural and enjoy life." What about this? —AUNTIE MAYME

DEAR MAYME: If your sister wants her children to enjoy life she'd better start to teach them some of the essentials on how to live with others. I mean MANNERS.

By manners, I don't mean superficial niceties. I mean genuine consideration for other people. Children who interrupt, grab, shove, and put their own wants first, demonstrate a basic lack of respect for the rights of others. Your sister can call this "natural" if she wants to. Others have a different definition—and such kids become persona non grata (plenty unwelcome) in all circles.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll be frank and come to the point. I'm a working girl, 29 years old, no raving beauty. In fact I'm plain looking and a little on the heavy side. I've had darned few dates in my life and exactly one proposal of marriage. This is the problem:

My boy friend is 27, good-looking, likes his martinis and changes jobs often. We were going to be married in December but he told me last night he lost $480 in a crap game and our wedding will have to wait. Also, he said he lost control of himself in a men's store and ran up a bill of $350.

I should tell you, too, in 1958 he got a girl in trouble and it cost ME, not him, $500. My mother says a woman, 29, has to put up with some monkey-shines or be an old maid. Help me decide—and PLEASE be practical, —JEAN

DEAR JEAN: This monkey has outshined himself. You're better off single than tied up with an irresponsible character who will bring you nothing but hear-ache and his overdue bills to pay.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Training For Disabled Veterans Started Again

A training program for disabled World War II veterans that ended in July has been brought back to life for another five years, according to Samuel Weston, officer in charge of the local VA office.

Weston said that the veterans concerned are mostly those who were undergoing training when the program, Public Law 16, came to an end on July 25. A new law permits virtually all of them (those who were in training on June 1) to resume their courses at the government's expense.

Weston also explained that the law established a new deadline of July 25, 1965 for the program.

The law does one thing more, Weston said. It keeps open the doors of the vocational training program to disabled World War II veterans classed as exceptional cases. They now have the right to begin training so long as they can complete it by the new 1965 deadline.

The exceptional cases are these:

1. World War II veterans whose disabilities prevented them from entering or completing training prior to the program's original deadlines;

2. Those who originally received discharges barring them from training, but whose discharges later were changed—but too late to get in under the original dead-

3. Those for whom a service-connected disability was not established in time to begin and complete a course of training.

Auto Tag Distribution Said Costly

Issuing auto licenses at the Allegany County Court House is costing the county money, William B. Orndorff, county tax collector who is in charge of the distribution, told the Western Maryland County Commissioners Association Thursday at Hagerstown.

Orndorff explained the county system to the commissioners from Garrett, Washington, Carroll and Frederick Counties.

Beall High School Survey Results In Accreditation

FROSTBURG — Beall High School has been accredited for the first time in its history by the Commission on Secondary Schools, Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Dr. Wayne W. Hill, principal, said the school has received official notification of the accreditation, which remains effective for a 10-year period.

Dr. Hill said Beall High School was granted permission to apply for the accreditation program by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster after a long period of planning. The successful achievement of the school represents an advance for the community as well as the school, Dr. Hill stated.

Studied In Spring

The commission sent a committee to Beall High School last spring to study and evaluate the school plant, teaching program, facilities and services. Heading the committee was Wilmer E. Shue, superintendent of Newark (Del.) schools.

The committe spent March 15-17 in meeting members of the faculty, reviewing reports on pupil population and the school community, visiting classes, examining school records and interviewing students, teachers and community contacts.

Dr. Hill said the commission also met with Beall High School committees on the following areas: Educational needs of youth, program of studies, pupil activity program, library services, guidance service, school plant, school staff and administration and in assemblying individual reports on each teacher's qualifications and certification (training and experience).

Much Advance Work

A great deal of work had to be done prior to the visit of the accrediting team, Dr. Hill explained. The school conducted a self evaluation in order that various forms and programs would be ready for review by the commission group.

Besides Shue, the accrediting team included Dr. Gordon E. Dannels, assistant chairman, principal of Swissvale (Pa.) High School; Richmond B. Barner, assistant superintendent of Somerset County (Pa.) schools; Dennis Burke, supervisor of secondary education of Elizabeth-Forward Schools, Elizabeth, Pa.

Arthur Y. Cairns, social studies teacher, California (Pa.) Community Senior High School; Samuel N. Francis, assistant supervising principal of J. A. Brashear Schools, Brownsville, Pa.; Mrs. Virginia Hardesty, commercial teacher, Brunswick High School.

Water Meters Being Installed In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—About 100 residents of Frostburg have the choice of having their present flat rate water bill doubled or install a meter and be charged $.50 per thousand gallons with a $4.50 minimum charge quarterly.

According to James Kenney, water commissioner, the Water Department has been making a drive to eliminate all flat rate customers and to have meters installed by the last of the year.

The city has an approximate total of 2,000 water customers. Of these, 100 do not have meters and are supposed to have their rate fixed by the number of persons in the home, type of heat, number of cars and other items such as spigots and outlets. However, many persons have never reported additional uses and the city is anxious to get all residents on the regular rate of a minimum of $4.50 for a quarter for 9,00 gallons. An additional charge of $.50 per thousand gallons is made for all over 9,000.

Since the drive has started, over 75 meters have been installed with about 100 remaining without meters. After January 1, 1961 present flat rates will be doubled. No changes will be made in meter rates for city users.

Any resident desiring to have a meter installed may call the City Hall. The Clerk will take their names and a meter will be installed as soon as possible. A $30 charge is made to cover cost of installation. The meter is the property of the city which maintains it as long as it is used.

West Virginia Will Lose One Congressional Seat

EDITOR'S NOTE: West Virginia will lose one congressman in 1963 under a reapportionment announced this week. Following is the second of two dispatches on the proposed redistricting of the state.

By I. RICHARD TOREN
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The specter of "gerrymander" raises its head almost every time a state faces redistricting as West Virginia does by 1962.

But this ancient political evil has never been much of a factor in West Virginia and is not expected to be when the present six congressional districts are reduced to five in the next year or two.

The present alignment was pretty much determined by a Republican Legislature in 1915 when the Mountain State increased its House membership from five to six. The 1915 bill had bipartisan support and there was little talk of gerrymandering.

That term, of course, means division of election districts in an unnatural or unfair way so as to give one political party an advantage over the other.

Only eight changes have been made since 1915, seven counties being switched to new districts in 1934 and Wirt being shifted from the 4th to the 3rd District in 1951.

Only one of the 1934 changes had much political significance—movement of heavily - Democratic Fayette County from the 6th to the 3rd District. And it raised no major Republican outcries.

Just as in 1934, the new district alignment will be completely in the hands of the Democrats, who will control the Senate 25-7 and the House 82-18 in the 55th Legislature.

Moore Position Strong

Major fights over the bill will probably be among the Democrats, since one of the five Democratic incumbents will almost surely be out of a job after new district lines are drawn.

The lone Republican, Arch A. Moore of the 1st District, seems to be in a strong position as regards possible gerrymandering.

Moore is firmly entrenched after winning an overwhelming third straight victory on Nov. 8. And the facts of geography and political registration would make it hard for the Democrats to hurt him even if they tried.

Couldn't the Democrats add several counties with big Democratic majorities to his district in an effort to weaken his position for 1962? It hardly seems possible in view of these facts:

The 1st District now covers seven counties — the four Northern Panhandle counties plus Wetzel, Marion and Taylor — with a registration of 101,000 Democrats to 68,000 Republicans, or 60 per cent Democratic.

Bailey's Home Base

The only heavily - populated counties nearby are Monongalia and Harrison, Democratic by margins of 60 and 63 per cent respectively. But Harrison is probably ruled out because it is the home base of Rep. Cleveland Bailey, just elected to his eighth term and dean of the delegation.

Chances are that Bailey would not want to be put in what would amount to Moore's old district, with a few counties added, and chances are that his wishes would be respected by the Legislature.

Even with Harrison as well as Monongalia counted in, the revised 1st District would still have about the same party alignment.

Three of the other four counties that adjoin District 1 have Republican majorities — Preston, Doddridge and Tyler. The fourth Barbour, is only 55 per cent Democrat. And the next surrounding row of counties are either small or not heavily Democratic.

Democratic eyes may well focus on the 4th District, where the Republicans have their largest percentage of voters, 44 per cent compared to 40 per cent in the 1st and 2nd Districts, 38 per cent in the 3rd, 29 per cent in the 5th and 34 per cent in the 6th.

Despite GOP registered strength, the 4th District has not elected Republicans as often as the 1st District has, 5 times in the past 12 elections compared to 6 in the 1st.

Strictly on a population basis, the new districts should average 372,000 persons, but that means little based on the fact that the present districts range from 279,000 to 446,000 compared with an ideal average of 334,000.

Water Meters Being Installed In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—About 100 residents of Frostburg have the choice of having their present flat rate water bill doubled or install a meter and be charged $.50 per thousand gallons with a $4.50 minimum charge quarterly.

According to James Kenney, water commissioner, the Water Department has been making a drive to eliminate all flat rate customers and to have meters installed by the last of the year.

An additional charge of $.50 per thousand gallons is made for all over 9,000.

Since the drive has started, over 75 meters have been installed with about 100 remaining without meters. After January 1, 1961 present flat rates will be doubled. No changes will be made in meter rates for city users.

Any resident desiring to have a meter installed may call the City Hall. The Clerk will take their names and a meter will be installed as soon as possible. A $30 charge is made to cover cost of installation. The meter is the property of the city which maintains it as long as it is used.

It was stated that all dogs must have county license tags.

West Virginia Will Lose One Congressional Seat

EDITOR'S NOTE: West Virginia will lose one congressman in 1963 under a reapportionment announced this week. Following is the second of two dispatches on the proposed redistricting of the state.

By I. RICHARD TOREN
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The specter of "gerrymander" raises its head almost every time a state faces redistricting as West Virginia does by 1962.

But this ancient political evil has never been much of a factor in West Virginia and is not expected to be when the present six congressional districts are reduced to five in the next year or two.

The present alignment was pretty much determined by a Republican Legislature in 1915 when the Mountain State increased its House membership from five to six. The 1915 bill had bipartisan support and there was little talk of gerrymandering.

That term, of course, means division of election districts in an unnatural or unfair way so as to give one political party an advantage over the other.

Only eight changes have been made since 1915, seven counties being switched to new districts in 1934 and Wirt being shifted from the 4th to the 3rd District in 1951.

Only one of the 1934 changes had much political significance—movement of heavily - Democratic Fayette County from the 6th to the 3rd District. And it raised no major Republican outcries.

Just as in 1934, the new district alignment will be completely in the hands of the Democrats, who will control the Senate 25-7 and the House 82-18 in the 55th Legislature.

Moore Position Strong

Major fights over the bill will probably be among the Democrats, since one of the five Democratic incumbents will almost surely be out of a job after new district lines are drawn.

The lone Republican, Arch A. Moore of the 1st District, seems to be in a strong position as regards possible gerrymandering.

Moore is firmly entrenched after winning an overwhelming third straight victory on Nov. 8. And the facts of geography and political registration would make it hard for the Democrats to hurt him even if they tried.

Couldn't the Democrats add several counties with big Democratic majorities to his district in an effort to weaken his position for 1962? It hardly seems possible in view of these facts:

The 1st District now covers seven counties — the four Northern Panhandle counties plus Wetzel, Marion and Taylor — with a registration of 101,000 Democrats to 68,000 Republicans, or 60 per cent Democratic.

Bailey's Home Base

The only heavily - populated counties nearby are Monongalia and Harrison, Democratic by margins of 60 and 63 per cent respectively. But Harrison is probably ruled out because it is the home base of Rep. Cleveland Bailey, just elected to his eighth term and dean of the delegation.

Chances are that Bailey would not want to be put in what would amount to Moore's old district, with a few counties added, and chances are that his wishes would be respected by the Legislature.

Even with Harrison as well as Monongalia counted in, the revised 1st District would still have about the same party alignment.

Three of the other four counties that adjoin District 1 have Republican majorities — Preston, Doddridge and Tyler. The fourth Barbour, is only 55 per cent Democrat. And the next surrounding row of counties are either small or not heavily Democratic.

Democratic eyes may well focus on the 4th District, where the Republicans have their largest percentage of voters, 44 per cent compared to 40 per cent in the 1st and 2nd Districts, 38 per cent in the 3rd, 29 per cent in the 5th and 34 per cent in the 6th.

Despite GOP registered strength, the 4th District has not elected Republicans as often as the 1st District has, 5 times in the past 12 elections compared to 6 in the 1st.

Strictly on a population basis, the new districts should average 372,000 persons, but that means little based on the fact that the present districts range from 279,000 to 446,000 compared with an ideal average of 33[illegible],000.

Biggest Theft In W. Va. Nets 1 To 10 Years

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— The man who committed the biggest cash theft in West Virginia history — a $351,000 haul from the State Motor Vehicles Department — was sentenced Friday to two concurrent prison terms of 1 to 10 years each.

Earl H. Mathews, 32, of nearby Marmet showed no emotion when sentence was imposed in Intermediate Court. Judge William J. Thompson named the medium security prison at Huttonsville as the place of confinement and recommended that Mathews serve a minimum of five years.

Mathews, an unemployed bus driver, had pleaded guilty last month to two breaking-and-entering indictments, one charging him with the Motor Vehicles Department break-in here last June 19 and the other accusing him of a break-in at an auto agency at Chelyan in which $2,500 was taken.

After one of the most intensive investigations ever undertaken in the state, State Police arrested Mathews at an apartment in South Charleston July 8. The $351,000 stolen from the Motor Vehicles Department vault still was in the trunk of his car. He said the amount of his loot was so many times greater than he expected that he had been afraid to try to spend any of it.

The money was taken from the department vault in a night break-in over the weekend. The large amount of cash was on hand because the department was in the midst of the annual auto license renewal rush.

A complaint was lodged on the use of state-owned vehicles for private purposes. Del. William Walsh said the vehicles can properly be used only for state business and that it is wrong, say, to use them to go to the grocery store.

"Why," Mr. Metz queried, "should they be used to get men to and from work?" The delegation promised to take the issue under advisement.

A major complaint was "Why should State Road maintenance employes be required to have a telephone installed in their home?"

Sen. See said a SRC official told him they "don't have to have a telephone if they don't want one." He suggested the association get a formal answer from the SRC on its policy on telephones.

George Jenkins, representing SRC construction workers, asked assurance that nothing will be done to reduce the retirement benefits of SRC workers.

Our Response In The Caribbean

The Navy alert in the Caribbean, ordered Thursday by President Eisenhower, has stirred up the predictable reaction from Cuba and from Fidel Castro's big Red brothers, Russia and China. They all say it's just another example of Yankee military intervention, and that it threatens the peace of the world. President Eisenhower so far is ignoring the objections.

Although Americans are accustomed to hearing such outbursts and discounting them because the charges do not agree with the facts, we often wonder how much ground the Communist bloc gains in other parts of the world by seeking to paint us as the enemies of peace. For instance, in how many countries is the nature of the problem understood? The facts, briefly, are these: The Panama Canal and its approaches, vital to the U.S. in case of any war in the Far East, are surrounded by countries where there is open hostility to the U.S., or where the Communists have done their best to stir it up. Cuba has treated the U.S. about as shoddily as we can tolerate, and now the governments of Guatemala and Nicaragua have sent written requests for U.S. protection from possible attacks from abroad. In response, the President has sent warships and planes to patrol the waters near the two countries. The State Department has explicitly stated that any action against a presumptive invasion force would be taken only within the territorial waters of Guatemala and Nicaragua. In other words, the Navy is not cruising around the Caribbean looking for something to shoot at, as Cuba and the Soviet Union and Red China would have the world believe.

The plain fact is that the President, by a speedy and bold reaction to new Communist threats in Latin America, has put Castro and the Communist nations on notice that the U.S. will live up to its obligations in the hemisphere. He has done no more and no less. He has not threatened anybody. He has merely made it clear that the U.S. and her Latin American allies are prepared to fight off any attack, despite Soviet Premier Khrushchev's frequent rocket-rattling. Certainly it is ridiculous for the Castro government to try to picture this as a buildup for a U.S. invasion of Cuba.

Everybody Knows Jack

Now that John F. Kennedy has been elected President, everybody knows Jack. They all knew him when. They all knew his father and mother, his sisters and brothers, his aunts and cousins, his in-laws and presumably his outlaws.

So, we can skip all that for a while. Columnists who tell inside stories about Jack Kennedy and even his wife, prove nothing. Most of them repeat little rumors that sound intriguing when spoken but childishly gossipy when one thinks about it.

John F. Kennedy has been elected President of the United States and that's that. From now on, the President decides whom he wishes to know. He may have been Jack a week ago; today he is Mr. President and a gentleman never addresses him differently.

It is a lonely job that John Kennedy has now. He will sit in that Oval Room alone and all decisions will be his own. He can shift neither authority nor responsibility. When one says that the President is alone, that is not quite so. He is guarded by Secret Service operatives; he is served by Secretaries; he has to make appointments so closely fitted that he hardly has time for himself or his family. In our country, he suffers the pomp of royalty as well as the labors of an executive. His every moment is watched; he has not a second of privacy nor can he arrange for privacy. Since William McKinley was assassinated, the President and every member of his family are guarded by an entire nation.

John Kennedy is a member of a gregarious, extrovertish clan. The Kennedys like people. True, they are somewhat brash but delightfully so. It is going to be psychologically difficult for Jack Kennedy to take on the full weight of Mr. President, but he will do precisely that, and many who believe that they have an inside track may discover that there is no track.

The father, Joseph Kennedy, has not made his enormous success in life by catering to cronies. Sure, he is unpopular with those who regard him as a lone wolf who gives a smile and a handshake and moves on. But Joe Kennedy has been loyal to those who are deserving of loyalty.

And it is likely that the children have learned from the father that the way to live is to get the job done and never to carry excess baggage.

It is not at all surprising that Kennedy flew to see Nixon to take the bad taste out of the campaign. That was the gentlemanly thing to do. The noise of a campaign should leave no hard feelings. This country needs at this moment all the talent available and Kennedy will undoubtedly search for talent and wisdom. I doubt whether he will have any prejudices against any man of talent but he is likely to rid himself quickly of hangers-on and wise guys.

Most Presidents soon become slaves of the White House. They only know what their hired staff tells them. They only read what is handed to them, if they read at all. John Kennedy is blessed with a literate, loyal, well-trained family. They will be his eyes and ears and they will speak up as they always have done within the Kennedy family. They will not lie. They will not sell him for a fee. They will not make trouble for him. The nation saw this family work during the campaign. They saw Robert Kennedy work for his brother as few men work for themselves. This is a clan—the Kennedys—and they stay together in the old-fashioned style.

So the fellows who knew Jack "when" might just as well let it go at that. We have heard their stories and tales and gossip and after January 20th, it will all sound pretty cheap. We give our President at least 100 days of a honeymoon with his job. After that we criticize according to our beliefs as to what is right or wrong, but during the whole of his tenure in office, he is Mr. President and one takes off his hat. Then comes the next election and we go to it with full force.

It may be a little different this time. We are at war; we are in danger. It may be necessary for all forces to join together without partisanship until the dollar is restored and our economy is safe.

Johnson's Successor In Senate Won't Back Kennedy Programs

By Drew Pearson

LOS ANGELES — Subtract one vote from the working Democratic margin President Kennedy is supposed to have in the Senate. Reason: Gov. Price Daniel of Texas has announced that he will appoint William E. Blakely to Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson's place in the Senate.

Blakely is the big oilman and owner of Braniff Air Lines who campaigned for the Senate against Ralph Yarborough in 1957 dressed in chaps and cowboy costume but with French shirt cuffs showing underneath. He campaigned on a charge that Yarborough, a liberal Texan who supports the Kennedy program, would take the country down the road to socialism. In the Senate next winter Blakely would vote consistently against most Kennedy proposals.

He could also vote against Senate confirmation of commissioners who favor regulation of insurance companies. When appointed to fill a Senate vacancy once before, Blakely kept silent on most things but got vocal regarding the confirmation of a federal trade commissioner, Edward Tait.

It so happened that the Federal Trade Commission had brought action against two of Blakely's insurance companies in Texas—the Guardian Insurance Company and the Guardian Life Insurance Company—for phony advertising.

"Any examination of the Guardian's advertising," charged the Trade Commission, "when contrasted with the actual terms of the policy, can lead only to the conclusion that the advertising is false, deceptive and misleading."

And to make sure that the interim Senator from Texas could not escape responsibility, the Trade Commission made him personally liable.

So when Commissioner Tait came before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for confirmation, Senator Blakely waded in with a barrage of criticism and questions claiming that the commission should have no jurisdiction over insurance companies.

However, Blakely has been a big contributor to the Democratic Party in Texas and will get the interim chance to fill John's shoes, plus this helpful springboard to run for a full term later.

Texas Vote Gimmick

Vice President-elect Johnson fought one of the hardest and most effective campaigns of the recent election and deserves some rest. However, there is a special gimmick in the Texas election setup which he should watch.

The Texas poll-tax law requires new poll taxes to be paid after January 31. And if the election to fill his shoes for the full term is held after that date, about half a million less people will vote in Texas.

For if the election is held after January 31, about half a million voters will not pay up the $3.50 per married couple ($1.75 each) that it takes to vote in Texas. They'll do it in a Presidential year, but not for an off-year Senate election.

And families who won't spare the $3.50 will be lower-bracket voters who will support a liberal Senator backing the Kennedy program.

Presumably Gov. Daniel's friend, William Blakely will fill the interim Senate spot. But if Johnson send his notice of resignation to Governor Daniels immediately, the Governor is required by law to issue a call for a special election within five days, to take place 60 or 90 days hence. And if he and Johnson want to, they can hold the special election before the next poll tax has to be paid.

Election-Go-Round

Vice President Nixon didn't realize it, but he was partly responsible for losing the state of Texas when he went to the Alamo and endorsed the Republican candidate for the State Senate opposing Democrat Henry Gonzales of San Antonio. Gonzales, who once ran for governor, is the idol of Spanish-Americans. When Nixon lined up against him, thousands of Spanish-American voters lined up against Nixon. And the Spanish-American vote can be decisive in Texas. Nixon of course merely took the advice of local Republicans . . .

When Mrs. Maurine Neuberger was elected Senator from Oregon it not only put two elected women in the Senate for the first time in history, but also patched up an old Senate feud. Sen. Wayne Morse and Mrs. Neuberger's late husband were not on speaking terms when he died. But Morse flew out to Oregon from the UN, where he's a U. S. delegate, and campaigned for Mrs. Neuberger . . . Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the other lady Senator, is now an old-timer. She was elected easily with no help from Washington. The Eisenhower administration even promoted to high position Fred Scribner, who once worked with Sen. Joe McCarthy, to try to defeat Mrs. Smith. Schibner is now Under Secretary of the Treasury . . . Kennedy picked a Washington artist, William Walton, to heal the wounds of New York's bitterly warring Democrats and make them pull together during the campaign. A lot of New York politicos were skeptical about having a Washington artist in charge of the campaign, but Walton produced the highest vote margin for Kennedy in the USA . . . Generalissimo Franco of Spain, Generalissimo Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, and other dictators can take comfort from one phase of the election. Congressman Charlie Porter of Oregon, No. 1 critic of the dictators, was defeated. Porter had waged a lone sometimes uphill battle against all dictators. In many cases the Eisenhower administration came round to his viewpoint. But the voters of Oregon didn't. They sided with Franco and Trujillo, voted Porter out . . . Close friend of Old Joe Kennedy is New York Times elder editor Arthur Krock. Jack Kennedy also credits Krock with advice on his book, "Profiles in Courage." But when the editorial staff of The New York Times voted to endorse Kennedy, Krock held out. He held out so stubbornly that The Times delayed its endorsement for more than a week.

Few Have Any Large Claims On Kennedy

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The relatively small number of outstanding political debts is a feature of his post-victory balance sheet which must give considerable quiet pleasure to Sen. Kennedy. Even President Eisenhower, in 1952, had a far poorer balance sheet than Kennedy has today.

This point was underlined in reverse, so to say, by the recent visit paid Kennedy by one of his principal creditors, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut. Kennedy plays the political game in accord with the accepted rules. He asked Ribicoff to lunch with him at Palm Beach, not only because he likes and admires him, which he does, but also because he feels indebted to him.

The astute Ribicoff and the equally astute Connecticut State Chairman, John Bailey, were the first professional politicians outside Massachusetts to back the Kennedy candidacy. For a long time, indeed, they were the only ones. As things have turned out, it was a little like buying General Motors stock when the company was formed, and never selling a share thereafter. This fact is not only important to Gov. Ribicoff, who will probably become Attorney General if he wants the job, and to John Bailey, who may well be Postmaster General. This same fact is also important to another Connecticut man, Chester Bowles, since the Bowles claim on Kennedy has to be rated as substantially weaker than the Ribicoff-Bailey claims.

Bowles was a late recruit in the Kennedy camp. Although it is not generally known, he even refused to speak in Kennedy's behalf in the crucial Wisconsin primary. Thereafter, his name was useful at Los Angeles. But he did not "sacrifice" his candidacy for the House to the Kennedy cause, as some of his friends are now saying. In fact, Bailey, who would hardly have acted against Kennedy's wishes, asked Bowles to stay in the House race, which was won by a Republican after Bowle's unexpected withdrawal.

These unkindly facts suggest why the drive to make Bowles Secretary of State is unlikely to be crowned with success. The new Cabinet, after all, cannot be half-recruited from Connecticut.

Political realists will note the same sort of unkindly facts in the case of Adlai Stevenson. Most ironical among them is the fact that Stevenson was asked to nominate Kennedy at Los Angeles, after his own chance of being nominated had reached zero. If he had taken this opportunity of the last instant, he would be a sure bet for Secretary of State now. But he refused. Thus the speeches Stevenson most usefully made during the campaign are his only major credit on the books.

In contrast, the books show solid pre-convention credit (the most valuable sort) for Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Gov. Mike DiSalle of Ohio, Governor-elect Terry Sanford of North Carolina, Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, Rep. Edith Green of Oregon, and the Los Angeles leader, Jeff Unruh, in California. As such lists go, this is a short one, even after the addition of the two Abou ben Adhems, Ribicoff and Bailey.

Federal employment will unquestionably be open to the people on the list, when and if they want a job—as some of them already do.

Cooperation, in general, rather than specific jobs for themselves, will be the desire of the organization men who also hold important credits. Pre-eminent among these are Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Buffalo boss Peter Crotty, and in New York City, the Bronx and Brooklyn leaders, Charles Buckley and Joseph T. Sharkey, but not Carmine DeSapio in Manhattan.

By Kennedy's personal orders, all important campaign contributors were specifically warned that no contract went with their checks. Two very large contributions were actually rejected because the intending donors wanted to be assured of diplomatic posts. This is the main reason why Kennedy's post-victory balance sheet is so much better than Eisenhower's was in 1952. But one must not forget the final category of those without money or delegates, whose own hard work contributed invaluably to Kennedy's success.

Heading this category is Robert Kennedy. Any other man who had worked as untiringly and brilliantly as Robert Kennedy worked for his brother, could confidently expect a place in the very highest rank of the new administration. On the face of the facts, it seems both ridiculous and unjust that Robert Kennedy's relationship to John F. Kennedy should be widely thought to debar him for the kind of post he could otherwise count on.

This is yet another question which must now be decided by the President-elect. After his hard won victory, he sits in Palm Beach playing a game like the game of fitting-pegs-in-holes, which is used to test childish I.Q.'s. But in his game, the pegs happen to be living, breathing, hoping human beings; and their degree of fitness for the holes may one day mean victory or defeat.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRE-FAB HOUSES — Prefabricated houses for Air Force personnel are being put up at Washington's Bolling Air Force Base. They're something to see.

The three-bedroom, ranch-style houses are shipped in on truck trailers. They are constructed on the spot, principally with the aid of a huge, easily inflated, low-pressure balloon.

The balloon is inflated to lift the roof into place. After the roof is fastened to the walls, the balloon is deflated and taken to the next house. It can be inflated with an ordinary home-type vacuum cleaner and the process saves time as well as some heavy lifting.

It takes about 36 hours to erect a house.

CHURK'S A JERK!—The Agricultural Research Center at nearby Beltsville has developed itself a new bird—the "churk". The fowl is a cross between a turkey and a chicken. It came about accidentally, by artificial insemination.

The only animal of its kind can't reproduce itself and is considered one of the more useless results of basic research. It has no earthly purpose or value other than as a laboratory curiosity.

If possible, it is even dumber than either its mother or father, who never knew each other intimately. The churk can't make much of a sound; it neither gobbles nor crows and can't even cry "fowl."

It has a long turkey neck and turkey legs, but chicken feathers. It can't stand up very well. It's feathers grow in spirals. Its appetite is bad and scientists force mash down its throat to keep it alive.

The original idea of the experiment was to further improve on the big-breasted Beltsville turkey, developed at the research center. A scientist was trying to produce a featherless turkey using chicken sperm. The result will cause the scientist to pursue his idea along some other avenue.

Why Some Children Won't Go To School

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some of the small fry refuse to go to school because they don't want to leave their parents. This is a form of separation anxiety and is most common in the only child or in one born years after his older brothers and sisters. These youngsters usually are timid, sensitive, or spoiled; they already have displayed other fear reactions such as night terrors.

The mother tends to be overprotective and overanxious; she is the type who specializes in "smother love." One authority describes her as dominated by her children as she had been dominated by her mother.

She tends to be inconsistent — spanking or threatening one moment and cuddling or bribing the next. The offspring sense that the mother wants them to stay home. Any illness is welcomed because it offers her an excuse.

In many instances, school phobia begins after a prolonged sickness or a change of home or school that allowed a prolonged absence. These boys and girls are to be differentiated from those who feign illness by vomiting or complaining of abdominal pain and from the truant who conceals his absence from teacher and parents.

Although the phenomenon is basically one of fear, some dislike school because they have been teased, ridiculed, bullied, or punished for a poor performance.

The problem is best handled by specialists in child guidance. The tot must get back to class; and mother and child be weaned from excessive dependence on each other. The mother's help is needed; she must understand the part she plays in the situation if the plan of returning the youngster to school is to be successful.

RESISTANT LESIONS

M. M. writes: I have had lichen planus of the mouth for five years. Is there any cure for this irritating condition?

REPLY

The cause of this inflammatory dermatosis is unknown and treatment of the chronic type is particularly unsatisfactory. Lesions in the mouth are especially stubborn and the best therapy our dermatologists have to offer is to reduce all irritation in this area. Get expert dental care and refrain from smoking and the use of condiments and hot foods.

KEEP CHIN UP

B. A. S. writes: How do you get rid of a double chin?

REPLY

Some women wear a chin strap, practice holding up the head, or try massage. A definite double chin is difficult to eliminate without the aid of a plastic surgeon.

RINGWORM VARIETIES

J. B. writes: Is there more than one type of ringworm?

REPLY

Hundreds of different fungi are capable of causing numerous types of ringworm, not only on the skin but internally.

URINARY TRACT

F. R. writes: Is pus in the urine a sign of kidney infection?

REPLY

Not necessarily, because pus may be coming from infection elsewhere in the urinary tract (the bladder, urethra, or ureters.).

TOE TUMOR

V. S. writes: What is Morton's toe?

REPLY

A foot condition that leads to severe, sharp, burning pain — usually near the base of the fourth metatarsal bone — on standing, walking, or even when resting. The cause is a nerve tumor that gets caught between the metatarsal bones.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Two Alabama stalwarts cleaned up a fortune in a big real estate deal and were able for the first time to indulge in a lifelong amtion: they went on a lion-hunting expedition in the jungles of Africa. By the time they discovered that the field manager in charge of native beaters, guides, and all their supplies, had been born in New England, it was too late to do anything about it. They had to suffer his presence in sulky silence.

One evening, however, the New Englander burst into their tent, shouting frantically, "Run for your lives! A herd of wild, murderous elephants is bearing down or us! They'll be here in five minutes! Run! Run!

One Alabamian calmly picked up his gun and shot the New Englander.

"Now what did yo'-all go and do that fo'?" asked his friend.

"If they's one thing I cain't stand," explained the shooter, "it's a loud-mouthed Yankee!"

Socrates In Scarsdale?

By John Crosby

If Socrates had lived in Scarsdale, he'd never have become "the most righteous man of the age," "intellectually the acutest, morally the purest." He'd have been too busy catching the 5:13 to have had any long thoughts. Once he got to Scarsdale, there'd be cocktails with the Flemings, the PTA meeting, and on Sunday the grass to cut — all activities safely calculated to blot out philosophy.

Also, if Socrates had lived in Scarsdale, he'd probably never have known Aristophanes or Xenophon or Plato because that crowd of writers and intellectuals all lived in Greenwich Village and he wouldn't have known Pericles and Aspasia and that government bunch because they all lived in Washington.

Fortunately, Socrates didn't live in Scarsdale. He lived in Athens and he was so fond of the city he rarely left it. He spent most of his life out of doors, on the streets and marketplaces which were peculiarly suited to lounging and talk, and Socrates talked incessantly to the local politicians, the shopkeepers, the writers, the soldiers, the students, and while he did much to shape their minds, they did more to shape his.

This is essentially what a city is — a meeting place for minds and for ideas. Only much much later did a city become the great merchandising center. Originally the warriors and statesmen met to exchange ideas. The exchange of goods was secondary. The glories of the mind came mostly out of mankind's great cities—democracy out of Athens, law out of Rome and later London, Renaissance art out of Florence, finance and world trade out of Carthage and Venice. Michaelangelo, Leonardo, Voltaire, Christopher Wren, Shakespeare, Plato — these were all city people. Whether they were born in the city or not, their greatest work was done there.

Today we are a suburban society, a nation of Scarsdales. The cities are left to the rich, the poor, the juvenile delinquents and the ward heelers. Do we realize what we have lost? The cities were the meeting ground of soldier, merchant, statesman, philosopher. The only place where all could meet, hone their minds on each other's disagreements; out of these explosions of mind came the grandeur that we call civilization. There isn't any other way.

Today we not only have the suburbs (and the exurbs where Madison Avenue talks only to each other as in Boston the Cabots talk only to God), the haven of the middle class, we also have the specialized cities. Washington where all the lawyers talk like Senators and Hollywood where the lawyers talk like Jerry Wald. Both government and the motion picture industry were intellectually impoverished by moving away from the people, and it's no accident that movies began to grow up when the movies moved out of Hollywood into the world.

London, Paris, and Rome are not only the financial centers of their countries (as New York is) but also the seats of national government, the center of literary and intellectual life, and also the place where the movies are made. This has enriched every field—government, books, movies, finance. Most importantly, it has enriched the life of each individual in it. Each shopgirl is a more rounded, more proportionate individual because she rubs elbows with legislators, with movie stars, writers, butchers, and bus drivers.

First, we must make our cities habitable again for something besides banks and insurance companies. But then we must build meeting places for the people — parks, playgrounds, coffee houses, theaters. There is no place in New York where people can rub elbows except saloons. We must have wider sidewalks with benches to sit down—if we have to tear twenty feet off every building in Manhattan. Meeting places are important—the property rights of realtors are not only unimportant but usually hopelessly evil. (You may set it down as Crosby's Law that all lobbies are despicable but real estate lobbies are the most despicable.)

We are not alone in suffering from them. Peter Simple of the "London Daily Telegraph" writes: "When the Goths reached Rome, it is said, they dared not enter it. They thought this overwhelming city with all its palaces and monuments still glorious in decay must be the work of a race of spirits, giants, or magicians, whom it would be rash to disturb or affront.

"The Goths of today are less easily abashed. Confronted with the architectural masterpieces of a more spacious age, they sneer, scoff, and destroy. Thus Councillor Simpson finds the Nash terraces of Regent's Park 'obsolete and unusable,' unadaptable to 'modern use.' They occupy great areas of land from which both St. Marylebone Council and the Crown Lands are anxious to squeeze more revenue.

"In Councillor Simpson we recognize a characteristic spokesman for our age; an age driven mad by self-impoverishment and greed, an age ready to pawn all the treasures of the past to raise money for one further day of spendthrift sloth.

"I expect daily to hear that St. Paul's is to be demolished to make room for a car park."

Most Presidents soon become slaves of the White House. They only know what their hired staff tells them. They only read what is handed to them, if they read at all. John Kennedy is blessed with a literate, loyal, well-trained family. They will be his eyes and ears and they will speak up as they always have done within the Kennedy family. They will not lie. They will not sell him for a fee. They will not make trouble for him. The nation saw this family work during the campaign. They saw Robert Kennedy work for his brother as few men work for themselves. This is a clan—the Kennedys—and they stay together in the old-fashioned style.

So the fellows who knew Jack "when" might just as well let it go at that. We have heard their stories and tales and gossip and after January 20th, it will all sound pretty cheap. We give our President at least 100 days of a honeymoon with his job. After that we criticize according to our beliefs as to what is right or wrong, but during the whole of his tenure in office, he is Mr. President and one takes off his hat. Then comes the next election and we go to it with full force.

It may be a little different this time. We are at war; we are in danger. It may be necessary for all forces to join together without partisanship until the dollar is restored and our economy is safe.

Johnson's Successor In Senate Won't Back Kennedy Programs

By Drew Pearson

LOS ANGELES — Subtract one vote from the working Democratic margin President Kennedy is supposed to have in the Senate. Reason: Gov. Price Daniel of Texas has announced that he will appoint William E. Blakely to Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson's place in the Senate.

Blakely is the big oilman and owner of Braniff Air Lines who campaigned for the Senate against Ralph Yarborough in 1957 dressed in chaps and cowboy costume but with French shirt cuffs showing underneath. He campaigned on a charge that Yarborough, a liberal Texan who supports the Kennedy program, would take the country down the road to socialism. In the Senate next winter Blakely would vote consistently against most Kennedy proposals.

He could also vote against Senate confirmation of commissioners who favor regulation of insurance companies. When appointed to fill a Senate vacancy once before, Blakely kept silent on most things but got vocal regarding the confirmation of a federal trade commissioner, Edward Tait.

It so happened that the Federal Trade Commission had brought action against two of Blakely's insurance companies in Texas—the Guardian Insurance Company and the Guardian Life Insurance Company—for phony advertising.

"Any examination of the Guardian's advertising," charged the Trade Commission, "when contrasted with the actual terms of the policy, can lead only to the conclusion that the advertising is false, deceptive and misleading."

And to make sure that the interim Senator from Texas could not escape responsibility, the Trade Commission made him personally liable.

So when Commissioner Tait came before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for confirmation, Senator Blakely waded in with a barrage of criticism and questions claiming that the commission should have no jurisdiction over insurance companies.

However, Blakely has been a big contributor to the Democratic Party in Texas and will get the interim chance to fill John's shoes, plus this helpful springboard to run for a full term later.

Texas Vote Gimmick

Vice President-elect Johnson fought one of the hardest and most effective campaigns of the recent election and deserves some rest. However, there is a special gimmick in the Texas election setup which he should watch.

The Texas poll-tax law requires new poll taxes to be paid after January 31. And if the election to fill his shoes for the full term is held after that date, about half a million less people will vote in Texas.

For if the election is held after January 31, about half a million voters will not pay up the $3.50 per married couple ($1.75 each) that it takes to vote in Texas. They'll do it in a Presidential year, but not for an off-year Senate election.

And families who won't spare the $3.50 will be lower-bracket voters who will support a liberal Senator backing the Kennedy program.

Presumably Gov. Daniel's friend, William Blakely will fill the interim Senate spot. But if Johnson send his notice of resignation to Governor Daniels immediately, the Governor is required by law to issue a call for a special election within five days, to take place 60 or 90 days hence. And if he and Johnson want to, they can hold the special election before the next poll tax has to be paid.

Election-Go-Round

Vice President Nixon didn't realize it, but he was partly responsible for losing the state of Texas when he went to the Alamo and endorsed the Republican candidate for the State Senate opposing Democrat Henry Gonzales of San Antonio. Gonzales, who once ran for governor, is the idol of Spanish-Americans. When Nixon lined up against him, thousands of Spanish-American voters lined up against Nixon. And the Spanish-American vote can be decisive in Texas. Nixon of course merely took the advice of local Republicans . . .

When Mrs. Maurine Neuberger was elected Senator from Oregon it not only put two elected women in the Senate for the first time in history, but also patched up an old Senate feud. Sen. Wayne Morse and Mrs. Neuberger's late husband were not on speaking terms when he died. But Morse flew out to Oregon from the UN, where he's a U. S. delegate, and campaigned for Mrs. Neuberger . . . Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the other lady Senator, is now an old-timer. She was elected earily with no help from Washington. The Eisenhower administration even promoted to high position Fred Scribner, who once worked with Sen. Joe McCarthy, to try to defeat Mrs. Smith. Schibner is now Under Secretary of the Treasury . . . Kennedy picked a Washington artist, William Walton, to heal the wounds of New York's bitterly warring Democrats and make them pull together during the campaign. A lot of New York politicos were skeptical about having a Washington artist in charge of the campaign, but Walton produced the highest vote margin for Kennedy in the USA . . . Generalissimo Franco of Spain, Generalissimo Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, and other dictators can take comfort from one phase of the election. Congressman Charlie Porter of Oregon, No. 1 critic of the dictators, was defeated. Porter had waged a lone sometimes uphill battle against all dictators. In many cases the Eisenhower administration came round to his viewpoint. But the voters of Oregon didn't. They sided with Franco and Trujillo, voted Porter out . . . Close friend of Old Joe Kennedy is New York Times elder editor Arthur Krock. Jack Kennedy also credits Krock with advice on his book, "Profiles in Courage." But when the editorial staff of The New York Times voted to endorse Kennedy, Krock held out. He held out so stubbornly that The Times delayed its endorsement for more than a week.

Few Have Any Large Claims On Kennedy

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The relatively small number of outstanding political debts is a feature of his post-victory balance sheet which must give considerable quiet pleasure to Sen. Kennedy. Even President Eisenhower, in 1952, had a far poorer balance sheet than Kennedy has today.

This point was underlined in reverse, so to say, by the recent visit paid Kennedy by one of his principal creditors, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut. Kennedy plays the political game in accord with the accepted rules. He asked Ribicoff to lunch with him at Palm Beach, not only because he likes and admires him, which he does, but also because he feels indebted to him.

The astute Ribicoff and the equally astute Connecticut State Chairman, John Bailey, were the first professional politicians outside Massachusetts to back the Kennedy candidacy. For a long time, indeed, they were the only ones. As things have turned out, it was a little like buying General Motors stock when the company was formed, and never selling a share thereafter. This fact is not only important to Gov. Ribicoff, who will probably become Attorney General if he wants the job, and to John Bailey, who may well be Postmaster General. This same fact is also important to another Connecticut man, Chester Bowles, since the Bowles claim on Kennedy has to be rated as substantially weaker than the Ribicoff-Bailey claims.

Bowles was a late recruit in the Kennedy camp. Although it is not generally known, he even refused to speak in Kennedy's behalf in the crucial Wisconsin primary. Thereafter, his name was useful at Los Angeles. But he did not "sacrifice" his candidacy for the House to the Kennedy cause, as some of his friends are now saying. In fact, Bailey, who would hardly have acted against Kennedy's wishes, asked Bowles to stay in the House race, which was won by a Republican after Bowle's unexpected withdrawal.

These unkindly facts suggest why the drive to make Bowles Secretary of State is unlikely to be crowned with success. The new Cabinet, after all, cannot be half-recruited from Connecticut.

Political realists will note the same sort of unkindly facts in the case of Adlai Stevenson. Most ironical among them is the fact that Stevenson was asked to nominate Kennedy at Los Angeles, after his own chance of being nominated had reached zero. If he had taken this opportunity of the last instant, he would be a sure bet for Secretary of State now. But he refused. Thus the speeches Stevenson most usefully made during the campaign are his only major credit on the books.

In contrast, the books show solid pre-convention credit (the most valuable sort) for Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Gov. Mike DiSalle of Ohio, Governor-elect Terry Sanford of North Carolina, Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, Rep. Edith Green of Oregon, and the Los Angeles leader, Jeff Unruh, in California. As such lists go, this is a short one, even after the addition of the two Abou ben Adhems, Ribicoff and Bailey.

Federal employment will unquestionably be open to the people on the list, when and if they want a job—as some of them already do.

Cooperation, in general, rather than specific jobs for themselves, will be the desire of the organization men who also hold important credits. Pre-eminent among these are Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Buffalo boss Peter Crotty, and in New York City, the Bronx and Brooklyn leaders, Charles Buckley and Joseph T. Sharkey, but not Carmine DeSapio in Manhattan.

By Kennedy's personal orders, all important campaign contributors were specifically warned that no contract went with their checks. Two very large contributions were actually rejected because the intending donors wanted to be assured of diplomatic posts. This is the main reason why Kennedy's post-victory balance sheet is so much better than Eisenhower's was in 1952. But one must not forget the final category of those without money or delegates, whose own hard work contributed invaluably to Kennedy's success.

Heading this category is Robert Kennedy. Any other man who had worked as untiringly and brilliantly as Robert Kennedy worked for his brother, could confidently expect a place in the very highest rank of the new administration. On the face of the facts, it seems both ridiculous and unjust that Robert Kennedy's relationship to John F. Kennedy should be widely thought to debar him for the kind of post he could otherwise count on.

This is yet another question which must now be decided by the President-elect. After his hard won victory, he sits in Palm Beach playing a game like the game of fitting-pegs-in-holes, which is used to test childish I.Q.'s. But in his game, the pegs happen to be living, breathing, hoping human beings; and their degree of fitness for the holes may one day mean victory or defeat.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRE-FAB HOUSES — Prefabricated houses for Air Force personnel are being put up at Washington's Bolling Air Force Base. They're something to see.

The three-bedroom, ranch-style houses are shipped in on truck trailers. They are constructed on the spot, principally with the aid of a huge, easily inflated, low-pressure balloon.

The balloon is inflated to lift the roof into place. After the roof is fastened to the walls, the balloon is deflated and taken to the next house. It can be inflated with an ordinary home-type vacuum cleaner and the process saves time as well as some heavy lifting.

It takes about 36 hours to erect a house.

CHURK'S A JERK!—The Agricultural Research Center at nearby Beltsville has developed itself a new bird—the "churk". The fowl is a cross between a turkey and a chicken. It came about accidentally, by artificial insemination.

The only animal of its kind can't reproduce itself and is considered one of the more useless results of basic research. It has no earthly purpose or value other than as a laboratory curiosity.

If possible, it is even dumber than either its mother or father, who never knew each other intimately. The churk can't make much of a sound; it neither gobbles nor crows and can't even cry "fowl."

It has a long turkey neck and turkey legs, but chicken feathers. It can't stand up very well. It's feathers grow in spirals. Its appetite is bad and scientists force mash down its throat to keep it alive.

The original idea of the experiment was to further improve on the big-breasted Beltsville turkey, developed at the research center. A scientist was trying to produce a featherless turkey using chicken sperm. The result will cause the scientist to pursue his idea along some other avenue.

Why Some Children Won't Go To School

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some of the small fry refuse to go to school because they don't want to leave their parents. This is a form of separation anxiety and is most common in the only child or in one born years after his older brothers and sisters. These youngsters usually are timid, sensitive, or spoiled; they already have displayed other fear reactions such as night terrors.

The mother tends to be overprotective and overanxious; she is the type who specializes in "smother love." One authority describes her as dominated by her children as she had been dominated by her mother.

She tends to be inconsistent — spanking or threatening one moment and cuddling or bribing the next. The offspring sense that the mother wants them to stay home. Any illness is welcomed because it offers her an excuse.

In many instances, school phobia begins after a prolonged sickness or a change of home or school that allowed a prolonged absence. These boys and girls are to be differentiated from those who feign illness by vomiting or complaining of abdominal pain and from the truant who conceals his absence from teacher and parents.

Although the phenomenon is basically one of fear, some dislike school because they have been teased, ridiculed, bullied, or punished for a poor performance.

The problem is best handled by specialists in child guidance. The tot must get back to class; and mother and child be weaned from excessive dependence on each other. The mother's help is needed; she must understand the part she plays in the situation if the plan of returning the youngster to school is to be successful.

RESISTANT LESIONS

M. M. writes: I have had lichen planus of the mouth for five years. Is there any cure for this irritating condition?

REPLY

The cause of this inflammatory dermatosis is unknown and treatment of the chronic type is particularly unsatisfactory. Lesions in the mouth are especially stubborn and the best therapy our dermatologists have to offer is to reduce all irritation in this area. Get expert dental care and refrain from smoking and the use of condiments and hot foods.

KEEP CHIN UP

B. A. S. writes: How do you get rid of a double chin?

REPLY

Some women wear a chin strap, practice holding up the head, or try massage. A definite double chin is difficult to eliminate without the aid of a plastic surgeon.

RINGWORM VARIETIES

J. B. writes: Is there more than one type of ringworm?

REPLY

Hundreds of different fungi are capable of causing numerous types of ringworm, not only on the skin but internally.

URINARY TRACT

F. R. writes: Is pus in the urine a sign of kidney infection?

REPLY

Not necessarily, because pus may be coming from infection elsewhere in the urinary tract (the bladder, urethra, or ureters.).

TOE TUMOR

V. S. writes: What is Morton's toe?

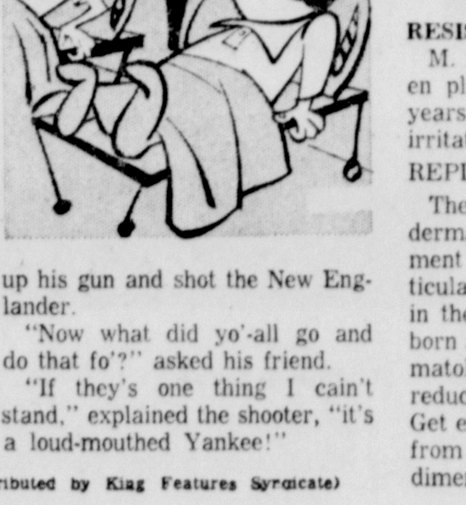
REPLY

A foot condition that leads to severe, sharp, burning pain — usually near the base of the fourth metatarsal bone — on standing, walking, or even when resting. The cause is a nerve tumor that gets caught between the metatarsal bones.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf



Two Alabama stalwarts cleaned up a fortune in a big real estate deal and were able for the first time to indulge in a lifelong amtion: they went on a lion-hunting expedition in the jungles o. Africa. By the time they discovered that the field manager in charge of native beaters, guides, and all their supplies, had been born in New England, it was too late to do anything about it. They had to suffer his presence in sulky silence.

One evening, however, the New Englander burst into their tent, shouting frantically, "Run for your lives! A herd of wild, murderous elephants is bearing down or us! They'll be here in five minutes! Run! Run!

One Alabamian calmly picked up his gun and shot the New Englander.

"Now what did yo'-all go and do that fo'?" asked his friend.

"If they's one thing I cain't stand," explained the shooter, "it's a loud-mouthed Yankee!"

Socrates In Scarsdale?

By John Crosby

If Socrates had lived in Scarsdale, he'd never have become "the most righteous man of the age," "intellectually the acutest, morally the purest." He'd have been too busy catching the 5:13 to have had any long thoughts. Once he got to Scarsdale, there'd be cocktails with the Flemings, the PTA meeting, and on Sunday the grass to cut — all activities safely calculated to blot out philosophy.

Also, if Socrates had lived in Scarsdale, he'd probably never have known Aristophanes or Xenophon or Plato because that crowd of writers and intellectuals all lived in Greenwich Village and he wouldn't have known Pericles and Aspasia and that government bunch because they all lived in Washington.

Fortunately, Socrates didn't live in Scarsdale. He lived in Athens and he was so fond of the city he rarely left it. He spent most of his life out of doors, on the streets and marketplaces which were peculiarly suited to lounging and talk, and Socrates talked incessantly to the local politicians, the shopkeepers, the writers, the soldiers, the students, and while he did much to shape their minds, they did more to shape his.

This is essentially what a city is — a meeting place for minds and for ideas. Only much much later did a city become the great merchandising center. Originally the warriors and statesmen met to exchange ideas. The exchange of goods was secondary. The glories of the mind came mostly out of mankind's great cities—democracy out of Athens, law out of Rome and later London, Renaissance art out of Florence, finance and world trade out of Carthage and Venice. Michaelangelo, Leonardo, Voltaire, Christopher Wren, Shakespeare, Plato — these were all city people. Whether they were born in the city or not, their greatest work was done there.

Today we are a suburban society, a nation of Scarsdales. The cities are left to the rich, the poor, the juvenile delinquents and the ward heelers. Do we realize what we have lost? The cities were the meeting ground of soldier, merchant, statesman, philosopher. The only place where all could meet, hone their minds on each other's disagreements; out of these explosions of mind came the grandeur that we call civilization. There isn't any other way.

Today we not only have the suburbs (and the exurbs where Madison Avenue talks only to each other as in Boston the Cabots talk only to God), the haven of the middle class, we also have the specialized cities. Washington where all the lawyers talk like Senators and Hollywood where the lawyers talk like Jerry Wald. Both government and the motion picture industry were intellectually impoverished by moving away from the people, and it's no accident that movies began to grow up when the movies moved out of Hollywood into the world.

London, Paris, and Rome are not only the financial centers of their countries (as New York is) but also the seats of national government, the center of literary and intellectual life, and also the place where the movies are made. This has enriched every field—government, books, movies, finance. Most importantly, it has enriched the life of each individual in it. Each shopgirl is a more rounded, more proportionate individual because she rubs elbows with legislators, with movie stars, writers, butchers, and bus drivers.

First, we must make our cities habitable again for something besides banks and insurance companies. But then we must build meeting places for the people — parks, playgrounds, coffee houses, theaters. There is no place in New York where people can rub elbows except saloons. We must have wider sidewalks with benches to sit down—if we have to tear twenty feet off every building in Manhattan. Meeting places are important—the property rights of realtors are not only unimportant but usually hopelessly evil. (You may set it down as Crosby's Law that all lobbies are despicable but real estate lobbies are the most despicable.)

We are not alone in suffering from them. Peter Simple of the "London Daily Telegraph" writes: "When the Goths reached Rome, it is said, they dared not enter it. They thought this overwhelming city with all its palaces and monuments still glorious in decay must be the work of a race of spirits, giants, or magicians, whom it would be rash to disturb or affront.

"The Goths of today are less easily abashed. Confronted with the architectural masterpieces of a more spacious age, they sneer, scoff, and destroy. Thus Councillor Simpson finds the Nash terraces of Regent's Park 'obsolete and unusable,' unadaptable to 'modern use.' They occupy great areas of land from which both St. Marylebone Council and the Crown Lands are anxious to squeeze more revenue.

"In Councillor Simpson we recognize a characteristic spokesman for our age; an age driven mad by self-impoverishment and greed, an age ready to pawn all the treasures of the past to raise money for one further day of spendthrift sloth.

"I expect daily to hear that St. Paul's is to be demolished to make room for a car park."

Missouri Seeks First Perfect Season In 70 Years

Tigers Could Cop National Crown Today

● Kansas Is Final Hurdle; Yale, Duke, Gophers Favored

By United Press International

Missouri will be seeking the first perfect season in its 70-year football history and Yale hopes to close out its first unbeaten untied campaign since 1923 Saturday when they tangle with old rivals.

Top-ranked Missouri (9-0) also will be shooting for the Big Eight conference championship, a trip to the Orange Bowl and the national title in its 69th meeting against Kansas at Columbia, Mo.

Yale (8-0) isn't entertaining any bowl offers but the Elis will be out to wrap up the Ivy League crown against Harvard in the 77th renewal of their rivalry at Cambridge, Mass.

Harvard Is Underdog

Harvard, a 10-point underdog, expects quarterback Charlie Ravenel to make only a token appearance in "the game." The senior signal caller led Harvard to runaway victories over Yale the last two years but hasn't played since he suffered a damaging knee injury in the second game of the season.

Kansas has a 6-2-1 season record but is undefeated in the Big Eight, so the Jayhawkers can walk off with the conference title by upsetting Missouri but are ineligible for a bowl bid.

Missouri, a seven-point favorite has one of the finest backfields in the nation, led by halfbacks Mel West and Donnie Smith and quarterback Ron Taylor. The Jayhawkers will counter with John Hadl, their triple-threat quarterback, and fullback Doyle Schick, who knifed through Mizzou for 116 rushing yards last year.

New Mexico State and Utah State, the nation's only other major perfect record teams, also are heavy favorites Saturday. New Mexico State (8-0) can clinch a tie for the border conference title by beating Hardin-Simmons while Utah State (9-0) can win the Skyline Conference crown by beating Utah.

Wisconsin Tests Gophers

Fourth-ranked Minnesota can tie Iowa for the Big Ten championship and gain a possible bid to the Rose Bowl by downing Wisconsin. The Gophers are favored by a touchdown while third-ranked Iowa is a 14-point pick over Notre Dame.

Sixth-ranked Duke is favored by 14 over North Carolina in the 47th game of their series that dates back to 1888, and ninth-ranked Ohio State is a 7½-point choice over Michigan.

In other games involving members of the top 10, Rose Bowl-bound Washington is a 13-point favorite over Washington State, Arkansas is an eight-point choice to defeat Texas Tech and gain the host berth in the Cotton Bowl, and Auburn is favored to defeat Florida State by at least 16 points.

Other major games include Pittsburgh vs. Penn State, Clemson vs. Boston College, Tennessee vs. Kentucky, LSU vs. Wake Forest, Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, Rice vs. TCU, UCLA vs. Southern California, and Stanford vs. California.

Patriots Belt Dallas, 42-14

Songin Fires Three Touchdown Passes

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Patriots, awarded an American Football League franchise a year ago today, celebrated their first birthday by walloping the powerful Dallas Texans, 42-14, Friday night as quarterback Butch Songin tossed three touchdown passes for the third straight week.

The Patriots ran up a 20-7 lead in the opening half, holding the Texans to nine yards on the ground and broke the game wide open with three touchdowns in the third period.

The defeat was by far the most lopsided against the Texans, who entered the game three-point favorites after winning their last three games. Dallas had not lost a game by more than 10 points previously.

Songin, the 33-year-old former Boston College star who was relegated to playing sandlot football a year ago, ran his season's scoring passes to 17 with another outstanding performance. He connected for nine yards to end Jimmy Colclogh in the second period and connected with end Joe Johnson for 6 and 18-yard touchdowns in the third period.

In all, Songin completed 25 of 35 passes and gained 228 yards in the air. He played only the first three periods.

Allegany To Play 33rd Thanksgiving Day Game

Campers Overall Record 13-16-3; Hahn's Teams Won 11, Lost 1, Tied 2

The Campers of Allegany High School will be participating in their thirty-third Thanksgiving Day football game against a local opponent when they face Fort Hill at the stadium next week.

In the 31 games played to date Allegany has finished on the short end 16 times while winning 12 and playing three ties.

The Allegany-Fort Hill Turkey Day series shows the Sentinels with a 12-10 margin in wins with two games even. Allegany once held a 9-1 lead in this series but has lost 11 of the last 14 games. Two of those games were ties while the Campers broke the long drought by winning last year by the score of 20-0.

Herman Ball's Allegany teams won six out of seven holiday games with Fort Hill while Camper elevens coached by Walter L. Bowers turned in a 5-3-1 record against LaSalle, Penn Avenue and Fort Hill. Bowers' record against Fort Hill in Turkey Day games is 3-0 but Bill Hahn, now at Wheaton High School, was the winningest coach with an 11-1-2 record against Allegany teams.

DINEEN'S RECORD STANDS

BOSTON (UPI)—Bill Dineen of the Boston Red Sox extablished a big league record in 1904 by pitching 37 consecutive complete games.

President Warren Giles of the National League has suspended the 12:30 a.m. curfew for all remaining games to be played in the last series between two clubs in a city.

Ted Williams says that pitching plays a bigger part in September because the shadows on the ball fields are longer and it's more difficult for the hitters. Also cooler weather helps the pitchers.

WVU To Make Last Try For Victory, Faces GWU Today

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —In 1891 Washington & Jefferson beat West Virginia's first football team 72-0. Not since that time have the Mountaineers gone through a full season without winning a game.

But this year, with a sophomore-laden team facing some of the nation's powerhouses, WVU has to win here over George Washington Saturday to avert tying that 69-year mark. It's the season finale for the winless Mountaineers.

Beating GW is easier said than done. The Colonials have shrugged off their role as Southern Conference patsies and haven't lost a game since Oct. 7.

And look who they've beaten: the Air Force Academy at mile-high Denver, Virginia Tech and Richmond. That brings the overall record to 4-3-1.

West Virginia tied Richmond and was decisively beaten by Virginia Tech. Both West Virginia and GW tied Boston University.

The Colonials go into the game as a slight favorite and eager to beat the Mountaineers, a team they haven't stopped in the last decade.

Warriors Trim Knicks, 101-99

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran Joe Graboski's 30-foot set shot with one second left to play Friday night gave the Philadelphia Warriors a 101-99 victory over the New York Knickerbockers at Madison Square Garden.

The lead changed hands 13 times in the fourth quarter and was tied on six other occasions before Graboski's last-chance shot gave the Warriors the triumph that broke a four-game losing streak.

It was Wilt Chamberlain, however, who provided Philadelphia with its tight victory by scoring six of the Warriors' last eight points in the game. The Philadelphia skyscraper dropped in 12 points in the blazing finish and had a game high of 34.

Syracuse Tops Miami In Rough Contest, 21-14

Orangemen Certain To Receive Bowl Bid

MIAMI (UPI) —Halfback Ernie Davis and fullback Art Baker powered the Syracuse offense on a last-chance 80-yard drive Friday night to whip fighting Miami, 21-14, and put the Orangemen in line for three bowl invitations.

The two backs lugged the ball nine times between them in the payoff drive with Davis plowing over from the three to score the winning touchdown in the final period. The victory probably killed off any Miami rope for a bowl game.

To Get Bowl Bids

Scouts for Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl watched the game and were sure to ask Syracuse to be their host team. But the Gotham Bowl in New York and the Cotton Bowl in Dallas—where Syracuse is defending champion—could also get the Eastern power which finished its season Friday night with a 7-2 record. Syracuse was not expected to accept any bid until a squad meeting at home Sunday night.

Miami went down fighting in one of the roughest games ever seen in the Orange Bowl Stadium. The Hurricanes had the crowd of 45,271 on its feet when Miami drove to the Syracuse six but quarterback Eddie Johns fumbled with 39 seconds to go. It was fourth down anyhow and Syracuse played out the clock.

Trainers Kept Busy

Syracuse was penalized for three personal fouls and trainers on both sides were kept busy treating the injured.

The final touchdown wes Davis' second. Fullback Gary Fallon got the other Syracuse score in the third quarter on a 36-yard run.

Miami halfbacks Ron Fritzsche and Jim Vollenweider scored Miami's touchdowns in the first and third periods.

Vollenweider plunged over from the two-yard line and Al Dangel kicked the conversion for Miami to tie the score at 14-14 in the third quarter.

Nugget Wins, 2-1

The Golden Nugget won two out of three games from the Cresaptown Eagles last night in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match. Raymond Duckworth headed the winners with 22 points and D. Kidwell paced the Eagles with 24 tallies.

Giants Given Edge In Game With Eagles

Packers Expected To Tie Idle Colts

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Even with quarterback Charlie Conerly in doubtful shape, the New York Giants were 3½-point favorites to beat the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the National Football League's top game.

This is another "must" game for the Giants, who trail the Eagles by a half game in the Eastern Division race. Philadelphia has won six straight games since losing the season-opener to Cleveland. The Giants are second with a 5-1-1 record and Cleveland third with 5-2.

The Eagles need to split the home-and-home series with the Giants during the next two Sunday in order to retain at least a share of first place.

With the Baltimore Colts (6-2) idle, the Green Bay Packers were favored by 13 points to beat the Los Angeles Rams at Milwaukee and move into a tie for first place in the Western Division.

The Browns, not too impressive in their last two games, were picked by 5 against the Steelers at Pittsburgh, the Chicago Bears were the choice by 6½ over the visiting Detroit Lions; the San Francisco Forty-Niners were favored by 13½ at Dallas to send the Cowboys down to their eighth straight defeat; and the St. Louis Cardinals were the choice by 5½ at home against Washington.

In the American Football League, the Los Angeles Chargers were at home against the Buffalo Bills and the Houston Oilers were host to the Denver Broncos. Los Angeles and Houston lead the divisions of the AFL.

This Sunday's television fare: the games of traveling NFL clubs will be piped back to the home area; the Browns-Steelers game will be shown over NBC to those cities where no NFL games are being played; the Buffalo-Los Angeles AFL game will be televised over the eastern portion of the ABC network and the Houston-Denver game will be seen throughout the west.

Hank Is Choice In Garden Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Hank, one of the busiest middleweights in boxing, and Ace Armstrong, who doesn't fight often, clash Saturday night in the television feature at Madison Square Garden. Hank is the 8-5 favorite.

The 10-rounder will be telecast nationally (ABC TV, 10 EST).

Hank, a stiff puncher from Detroit, makes his garden debut with 10 fights behind him this year. The 25-year-old contender won 7, lost 2 and drew in the other with Jesse Smith.

Hank's record is 46-12-2, including 33 knockouts. This has earned him a No. 5 ranking among the 160-pound contenders.

Armstrong has had only 21 fights for an 18-2-1 record.

The rangy, 29-year-old boxer from Elizabeth, N.J., has scored only one knockout.

Walter O'Malley Holds Key To Situation In Los Angeles

AL And Dodgers Boss To Talk Indemnities; Meet Again Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League, undecided over what action to take involving the new Los Angeles franchise, recessed until Tuesday after deliberating almost eight hours Friday.

"We have a number of applicants for the Los Angeles franchise," said AL President Joe Cronin. "We will consider all of them in the meanwhile.

"We met with Commissioner Ford Frick and had an agreeable meeting. Del Webb (co-owner of the New York Yankees and a representative of the American League) is on his way now to Los Angeles to discuss the situation with Walter O'Malley.

"We told the commissioner we would be glad to sit down with O'Malley (Los Angeles Dodgers' owner) to talk over matters pertaining to an American League club playing in the Los Angeles Coliseum."

Draft Session Delayed

It has been Frick's stand that indemnities are due O'Malley from any American League team that moves into Los Angeles.

Because of the uncertainty of the Los Angeles situation, Cronin said, the draft session to select players for the new Los Angeles and Washington franchises has been put off until Nov. 25.

"This will not affect the inter-league trading starting Monday," Cronin said, "except that American League clubs may not trade anyone on the 15-player list they submitted to us as draft eligibles by the new franchises today."

Cronin said further bids for the Los Angeles franchise will be heard Tuesday when the meeting resumes. One applicant, Charles O. Finley of Gary, Ind., appeared before the league officials Friday and Cronin said several other offers were entertained by phone and wire.

Finley Tried Before

Finley, who had tried unsuccessfully to buy the old Philadelphia A's, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox in recent years, said he was ready to invest $5 million of his personal funds for the franchise. He said he had no partners.

While the meeting was in progress, general managers of the eight "old" franchises filed with league headquarters their list of 15 draft eligibles from their current rosters. Each club will lose seven men with each new club acquiring title to 28 men at $75,000 each or $2.1 million total.

Well known players such as Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees, Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles, Don Newcombe of the Cleveland Indians, Hank Bauer of the Kansas City A's and Billy Goodman and Turk Lown of the Chicago White Sox were reported on the lists which were not released officially.

Offered Lane Job

Elwood (Pete) Quesada, head of the 10-man group that was awarded the Washington franchise Thursday night, tried to sign Frank Lane as his general manager but Lane decided to remain with Cleveland.

Quesada hoped to make a decision on someone to help with the player draft even if his selection might not turn out to be his permanent general manager.

Missouri Seeks First Perfect Season In 70 Years

Tigers Could Cop National Crown Today

Kansas Is Final Hurdle; Yale, Duke, Gophers Favored

By United Press International

Missouri will be seeking the first perfect season in its 70-year football history and Yale hopes to close out its first unbeaten untied campaign since 1923 Saturday when they tangle with old rivals.

Top-ranked Missouri (9-0) also will be shooting for the Big Eight conference championship, a trip to the Orange Bowl and the national title in its 69th meeting against Kansas at Columbia, Mo.

Yale (8-0) isn't entertaining any bowl offers but the Elis will be out to wrap up the Ivy League crown against Harvard in the 77th renewal of their rivalry at Cambridge, Mass.

Harvard Is Underdog

Harvard, a 10-point underdog, expects quarterback Charlie Ravenel to make only a token appearance in "the game." The senior signal - caller led Harvard to runaway victories over Yale the last two years but hasn't played since he suffered a damaging knee injury in the second game of the season.

Kansas has a 6-2-1 season record but is undefeated in the Big Eight, so the Jayhawkers can walk off with the conference title by upsetting Missouri but are ineligible for a bowl bid.

Missouri, a seven - point favorite has one of the finest backfields in the nation, led by halfbacks Mel West and Donnie Smith and quarterback Ron Taylor. The Jayhawkers will counter with John Hadl, their triple-threat quarterback, and fullback Doyle Schick, who knifed through Mizzou for 116 rushing yards last year.

New Mexico State and Utah State, the nation's only other major perfect record teams, also are heavy favorites Saturday. New Mexico State (8 - 0) can clinch a tie for the border conference title by beating Hardin-Simmons while Utah State (9-0) can win the Skyline Conference crown by beating Utah.

Wisconsin Tests Gophers

Fourth - ranked Minnesota can tie Iowa for the Big Ten championship and gain a possible bid to the Rose Bowl by downing Wisconsin. The Gophers are favored by a touchdown while third-ranked Iowa is a 14-point pick over Notre Dame.

Sixth-ranked Duke is favored by 14 over North Carolina in the 47th game of their series that dates back to 1888, and ninth-ranked Ohio State is a 7½-point choice over Michigan.

In other games involving members of the top 10, Rose Bowl-bound Washington is a 13-point favorite over Washington State, Arkansas is an eight-point choice to defeat Texas Tech and gain the host berth in the Cotton Bowl, and Auburn is favored to defeat Florida State by at least 16 points.

Other major games include Pittsburgh vs. Penn State, Clemson vs. Boston College, Tennessee vs. Kentucky, LSU vs. Wake Forest, Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, Rice vs. TCU, UCLA vs. Southern California, and Stanford vs. California.

Patriots Belt Dallas, 42-14

Songin Fires Three Touchdown Passes

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Patriots, awarded an American Football League franchise a year ago today, celebrated their first birthday by walloping the powerful Dallas Texans, 42-14, Friday night as quarterback Butch Songin tossed three touchdown passes for the third straight week.

The Patriots ran up a 20-7 lead in the opening half, holding the Texans to nine yards on the ground and broke the game wide open with three touchdowns in the third period.

The defeat was by far the most lopsided against the Texans, who entered the game three-point favorites after winning their last three games. Dallas had not lost a game by more than 10 points previously.

Songin, the 33-year-old former Boston College star who was relegated to playing sandlot football a year ago, ran his season's scoring passes to 17 with another outstanding performance. He connected for nine yards to end Jimmy Colclogh in the second period and connected with end Joe Johnson for 6 and 18-yard touchdowns in the third period.

In all, Songin completed 25 of 35 passes and gained 228 yards in the air. He played only the first three periods.

The final touchdown wes Davis' second. Fullback Gary Fallon got the other Syracuse score in the third quarter on a 36-yard run.

Miami halfbacks Ron Fritzsche and Jim Vollenweider scored Miami's touchdowns in the first and third periods.

Vollenweider plunged over from the two-yard line and Al Dangel kicked the conversion for Miami to tie the score at 14-14 in the third quarter.

Giants Given Edge In Game With Eagles

Packers Expected To Tie Idle Colts

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Even with quarterback Charlie Conerly in doubtful shape, the New York Giants were 3½-point favorites to beat the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the National Football League's top game.

This is another "must" game for the Giants, who trail the Eagles by a half game in the Eastern Division race. Philadelphia has won six straight games since losing the season-opener to Cleveland. The Giants are second with a 5-1-1 record and Cleveland third with 5-2.

The Eagles need to split the home-and-home series with the the Giants during the next two Sunday in order to retain at least a share of first place.

With the Baltimore Colts (6-2) idle, the Green Bay Packers were favored by 13 points to beat the Los Angeles Rams at Milwaukee and move into a tie for first place in the Western Division.

The Browns, not too impressive in their last two games, were picked by 5 against the Steelers at Pittsburgh, the Chicago Bears were the choice by 6½ over the visiting Detroit Lions; the San Francisco Forty-Niners were favored by 13½ at Dallas to send the Cowboys down to their eighth straight defeat; and the St. Louis Cardinals were the choice by 5½ at home against Washington.

In the American Football League, the Los Angeles Chargers were at home against the Buffalo Bills and the Houston Oilers were host to the Denver Broncos. Los Angeles and Houston lead the divisions of the AFL.

This Sunday's television fare: the games of traveling NFL clubs will be piped back to the home area: the Browns-Steelers game will be shown over NBC to those cities where no NFL games are being played; the Buffalo-Los Angeles AFL game will be televised over the eastern portion of the ABC network and the Houston - Denver game will be seen throughout the west.

Cadets Lose Final, 19-0

Edmondson Closes With 9-0 Record

Edmondson High School of Baltimore wound up its football season undefeated and untied by beating the Frederick High School Cadets last night in Frederick by the score of 19-0.

It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Monumental City eleven.

Milt Lane scored the first touchdown on a three-yard run. A 36-yard pass play from Al Banks to Earl Miller produced the second score and Linwood Hart galloped 54 yards in the final period for the last six pointer. Hart also plunged the extra point.

It was the second shutout defeat in ten outings for the Cadets. Frederick dropped a 28-0 decision to Fort Hill early in the season.

Coach Jack Molesworth's team wound up its campaign with a 5-4-1 record. Score by periods:

Edmondson	0	7	6	6	—19

Touchdowns: Edmondson — Lane (3-yard run); Miller (36-yard pass from Banks), Hart (54-yard run).

Extra point: Edmondson — Hart (plunge).

Hank Is Choice In Garden Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Hank, one of the busiest middleweights in boxing, and Ace Armstrong, who doesn't fight often, clash Saturday night in the television feature at Madison Square Garden. Hank is the 8-5 favorite.

The 10-rounder will be telecast nationally (ABC TV, 10 EST).

Hank, a stiff puncher from Detroit, makes his garden debut with 10 fights behind him this year. The 25-year-old contender won 7, lost 2 and drew in the other with Jesse Smith.

Hank's record is 46-12-2, including 33 knockouts. This has earned him a No. 5 ranking among the 160-pound contenders.

Armstrong has had only 21 fights for an 18-2-1 record.

The rangy, 29-year-old boxer from Elizabeth, N.J., has scored only one knockout.

Walter O'Malley Holds Key To Situation In Los Angeles

AL And Dodgers Boss To Talk Indemnities; Meet Again Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League, undecided over what action to take involving the new Los Angeles franchise, recessed until Tuesday after deliberating almost eight hours Friday.

"We have a number of applicants for the Los Angeles franchise," said AL President Joe Cronin. "We will consider all of them in the meanwhile.

"We met with Commissioner Ford Frick and had an agreeable meeting. Del Webb (co-owner of the New York Yankees and a representative of the American League) is on his way now to Los Angeles to discuss the situation with Walter O'Malley.

"We told the commissioner we would be glad to sit down with O'Malley (Los Angeles Dodgers' owner) to talk over matters pertaining to an American League club playing in the Los Angeles Coliseum."

Draft Session Delayed

It has been Frick's stand that indemnities are due O'Malley from any American League team that moves into Los Angeles.

Because of the uncertainty of the Los Angeles situation, Cronin said, the draft session to select players for the new Los Angeles and Washington franchises has been put off until Nov. 25.

"This will not affect the inter-league trading starting Monday," Cronin said, "except that American League clubs may not trade anyone on the 15-player list they submitted to us as draft eligibles by the new franchises today."

Cronin said further bids for the Los Angeles franchise will be heard Tuesday when the meeting resumes. One applicant, Charles O. Finley of Gary, Ind., appeared before the league officials Friday and Cronin said several other offers were entertained by phone and wire.

Finley Tried Before

Finley, who had tried unsuccessfully to buy the old Philadelphia A's, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox in recent years, said he was ready to invest $5 million of his personal funds for the franchise. He said he had no partners.

While the meeting was in progress, general managers of the eight "old" franchises filed with league headquarters their list of 15 draft eligibles from their current rosters. Each club will lose seven men with each new club acquiring title to 28 men at $75,000 each or $2.1 million total.

Well known players such as Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees, Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles, Don Newcombe of the Cleveland Indians, Hank Bauer of the Kansas City A's and Billy Goodman and Turk Lown of the Chicago White Sox were reported on the lists which were not released officially.

Offered Lane Job

Elwood (Pete) Quesada, head of the 10-man group that was awarded the Washington franchise Thursday night, tried to sign Frank Lane as his general manager but Lane decided to remain with Cleveland.

Quesada hoped to make a decision on someone to help with the player draft even if his selection might not turn out to be his permanent general manager.

Bald Eagle Is Out Of $75,000 Race, Retired To Stud

Loss Of Horse Of Year Title Irks Owner

Stable Displeased Upon Hearing Kelso Will Get Top Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bald Eagle was retired to stud Friday after his owner decided not to enter him in the Gallant Fox Handicap because "horse of the year" honors apparently were beyond his grasp.

The only double winner of the Washington D. C. International had been expected to bow out of competition Saturday in the $75,000 Gallant Fox but owner Harry F. Guggenheim of the Cain Hoy Stable jumped the gun.

"I understand that the decision for horse of the year by now has been made," Guggenheim said, pointing out that voting in several year-end polls already have been completed. "The Gallant Fox would be an anti-climax for the brilliant career of a noble animal," he stated.

Kelso Reported Picked

The top honors for 1960 undoubtedly will go to Kelso, who also was missing when entries for the Gallant Fox closed Friday with 10 named for the mile and three quarter race to be run at Aqueduct.

But Kelso heads for California and additional gold and glory while Bald Eagle now has his racing career behind him.

In his last four starts, Kelso won the Discovery handicap at 1⅛ miles, the Lawrence Realization at 1⅝ miles, the Hawthorne Gold Cup at 1¼ miles, and the Jockey Club Gold Cup at 2 miles.

In the Gold Cup, Kelso beat Bald Eagle and thus clinched "horse of the year" honors in the opinion of most experts.

Don Poggio Favored

With Bald Eagle and Kelso out of the race Don Poggio, winner of the Merchants and Citizens Handicap and the Manhattan Handicap, headed the field for the Gallant Fox. He loomed as a 7-5 favorite with Sam Boulmetis riding.

In 1959 Bald Eagle won the Suburban, the Saratoga, the Washington D. C. International and the Gallant Fox.

This year he scored in the Widener, the Gulfstream Park, the Metropolitan, the Aqueduct and then won the Washington D. C. International for an unprecedented second time.

MacKay And Fraser To Meet For Title

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The two top tennis stars of the United States and Australia, Barry MacKay and Neale Fraser, will meet Saturday in the final of the New South Wales tennis championships.

It could be an early pointer to the Davis Cup prospects for the two old rivals could very well play the deciding match in the challenge round on the same White City Stadium courts here Dec. 26-28. First, however, the U.S. has to beat the Phillippines Nov. 22-24, and then Italy, Dec. 9-11.

Pott Ties Gustin In Cajun Tourney

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Johnny Pott, one of the most successful golfers this year, and Jon Gustin, who has yet to win a tourney, tied for the lead of the $15,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament at the halfway mark Friday night.

Pott, 25, of Shreveport, turned in the day's best round—a five-under-par 66 for a second-round total of 136. Gustin, 28, from Gladwyne, Pa., had a 69 to go with his first round 67.

Lionel Hebert, a native of Lafayette, and Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, were next at 137. Jay Hebert, Lionel's brother, and Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla., tied at 138.

St. Louis Group Withdraws Bid For Athletics

Rival Kansas City Group May Get Club

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A syndicate headed by Elliot H. Stein, St. Louis investment broker, withdrew Friday from negotiations for purchase of the Kansas City Athletics in favor of a rival Kansas City group.

The about-face came just after Stein met with representatives of Kansas City business and civic interests seeking control of the last-place American League club.

Stein said he and his associates are backing out because of disappointment expressed by Kansas City fans that control might pass to an outside group. But Byron Spencer, an attorney for the Kansas City group, was skeptical.

"I think they are withdrawing for one of two reasons," Spencer said. "One is that they concluded they could not get the other 48 per cent of the stock and the other that they bid too much for the club."

Co-executors of the estate of the late Arnold Johnson, who moved the club to Kansas City upon purchasing control, were authorized Monday to sell the estate's 52 per cent of the stock to the Stein syndicate.

Probate Judge Robert J Dunne of Chicago, who granted the authority, has set another hearing for Monday on the matter. The judge had approved $1,820,000 as the price for the 52 per cent of the stock. Stein said the stock would be offered to the Kansas City group at an identical price.

Terps Play Final Game

Maryland Meets Cavaliers Today

By The Associated Press

Maryland's surprising football team ends its season at Virginia Saturday and one of the most uncredited players in his last game will be Quarterback Dale Betty.

Betty, with little notice, already has completed more passes than any Maryland football player in history. His 69 are three more than Tommy Mont completed in nine games in 1942.

Betty's completed percentage mark of .616 is not only best for Maryland but also is one of the best in the nation.

Making him even more dangerous, Betty can run well with the ball. His 45 carries are the third highest on the squad behind only the fullbacks, Pat Drass and Rex Collins.

Betty and his Maryland teammates will be out for their sixth victory against Virginia. A victory would provide first winning season for the Terrapins since 1955.

The only game in the state Saturday will be at Westminster between Johns Hopkins and Western Maryland.

Both are assured of winning records regardless of the outcome of their last game. Hopkins is 5-1-1 and Western Maryland is 5-3.

Leishman Succeeds Ralph Kiner As GM

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League Friday named Eddie Leishman, 49, their general manager.

Leishman, a former successful farm team general manager for the New York Yankees, resigned last month as general manager of the Salt Lake City Bees—a post he held thre seasons.

He replaces Ralph Kiner, who will remain a Padre vice president. Kiner, former major league slugging star, plans soon to become an executive of the proposed Los Angeles entry in the American League.

BIDS FOR TEAM — Charles O. Finley, 42-year-old insurance broker from Gary, Ind., was interviewed yesterday by American League officials on his request for the baseball franchise in Los Angeles. He came to a special expansion meeting when he heard Hank Greenberg of the Chicago White Sox had withdrawn his bid. Finley said "I have $5,000,000 of my own money ready to invest if and when I get league approval." (AP Photofax)

Woodling Heads Fifteen Birds On Draft List

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran outfielder Gene Woodling is one of the 15 players the Baltimore Orioles made available for draft at $75,000 each by the new Washington and Los Angeles franchises, the Associated Press learned Friday.

The other Orioles on the expendable list are pitchers Billy Hoeft, Gordon Jones, Roy Moeller, Steve Dalkowski and Dean Chance, catchers Clint Courtney, Gene Green and Frank Zupo, infielders Walt Dropo, Bob Boyd, Billy Klaus and Don Ross and outfielders Chuck Hinton and Jim Liggett.

PASS TO HIMSELF

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts caught his own pass for a one-yard gain against the Detroit Lions, Nov. 18, 1956.

Sentinels Get Ready For 25th Cage Season

Opener On Dec. 21 Is 589th Contest

Fort Hill High School marks the opening of its silver anniversary year in basketball one month from Monday (Dec. 21) when it meets Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs on the West Virginians' court.

It will be the 589th cage contest for the Sentinels since 1937. Over the past 24 seasons Fort Hill has won 383 games while losing 205 for a .651 average.

Last season was the losingest in the school's history and the Sentinels don't have to win many games to better their 2-19 mark.

Coach Jim Eckard has scheduled 18 games and hopes to add two more.

Five of the players returning, namely, Jim Rice, Bill Colbert, Dick Peck, George Twigg and Bill Sheetz, have three years' experience. Rice paced the scorers last season with 208 tallies.

The schedule:

Dec. 21 — Martinsburg, A. 23 — LaSalle, A. 28 — Alumni, H.

Jan. 6 — Valley, H. 10 — Bruce, A. 13 — Beall, A. 17 — Mt. Savage, H. 20 — Allegany, H. 27 — Martinsburg, H. 28 — Keyser, H. 31 — South Hagerstown, A.

Feb. 3 — Valley, A. 7 — Bruce, H. 10 — Beall, H. 14 — Mt. Savage, A. 17 — Allegany, A. 21 — LaSalle, H. 24 — South Hagerstown, H.

Bald Eagle Is Out Of $75,000 Race, Retired To Stud

Stable Displeased Upon Hearing Kelso Will Get Top Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bald Eagle was retired to stud Friday after his owner decided not to enter him in the Gallant Fox Handicap because "horse of the year" honors apparently were beyond his grasp.

The only double winner of the Washington D. C. International had been expected to bow out of competition Saturday in the $75,000 Gallant Fox but owner Harry F. Guggenheim of the Cain Hoy Stable jumped the gun.

"I understand that the decision for horse of the year by now has been made," Guggenheim said, pointing out that voting in several year-end polls already have been completed. "The Gallant Fox would be an anti-climax for the brilliant career of a noble animal," he stated.

Kelso Reported Picked

The top honors for 1960 undoubtedly will go to Kelso, who also was missing when entries for the Gallant Fox closed Friday with 10 named for the mile and three quarter race to be run at Aqueduct.

But Kelso heads for California and additional gold and glory while Bald Eagle now has his racing career behind him.

In his last four starts, Kelso won the Discovery handicap at 1⅛ miles, the Lawrence Realization at 1⅝ miles, the Hawthorne Gold Cup at 1¼ miles, and the Jockey Club Gold Cup at 2 miles.

In the Gold Cup, Kelso beat Bald Eagle and thus clinched "horse of the year" honors in the opinion of most experts.

Don Poggio Favored

With Bald Eagle and Kelso out of the race Don Poggio, winner of the Merchants and Citizens Handicap and the Manhattan Handicap, headed the field for the Gallant Fox. He loomed as a 7-5 favorite with Sam Boulmetis riding.

In 1959 Bald Eagle won the Suburban, the Saratoga, the Washington D. C. International and the Gallant Fox.

This year he scored in the Widener, the Gulfstream Park, the Metropolitan, the Aqueduct and then won the Washington D. C. International for an unprecedented second time.

MacKay And Fraser To Meet For Title

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The two top tennis stars of the United States and Australia, Barry MacKay and Neale Fraser, will meet Saturday in the final of the New South Wales tennis championships.

It could be an early pointer to the Davis Cup prospects for the two old rivals could very well play the deciding match in the challenge round on the same White City Stadium courts here Dec. 26-28. First, however, the U.S. has to beat the Phillippines Nov. 22-24, and then Italy, Dec. 9-11.

Pott Ties Gustin In Cajun Tourney

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Johnny Pott, one of the most successful golfers this year, and Jon Gustin, who has yet to win a tourney, tied for the lead of the $15,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament at the halfway mark Friday night.

Pott, 25, of Shreveport, turned in the day's best round—a five-under-par 66 for a second-round total of 136. Gustin, 28, from Gladwyne, Pa., had a 69 to go with his first round 67.

Lionel Hebert, a native of Lafayette, and Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, were next at 137. Jay Hebert, Lionel's brother, and Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla., tied at 138.

Pimlico Futurity Choice In Garwol

BALTIMORE (AP) — Garwol, one of Louis E. Wolfson's examples of "buying his way" into big-time racing, will be a slight favorite to win the $50,000-added Pimlico Futurity here Saturday.

The 2-year-old from Wolfson's Harbor View Farm will compete with a well-matched field of seven other juveniles over the 1 1-16 mile route.

With a gross purse of $110,760, the winner will take home $67,371 if all eight start.

Opposing Garwol will be King Ranch's Bal Musette, Leonard P. Sasso's Busher's Beauty, Boncrist Farm's Nashua Bell, Hill-NDale Farm's Polarity, Roslyn Farm's Annihilation, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Try Cash and Jacob Sher's Sherluck.

Garwol was second by a head to stable mate Roving Minstrel in the Champagne Stakes at Belmont a couple of weeks ago.

St. Louis Group Withdraws Bid For Athletics

Rival Kansas City Group May Get Club

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A syndicate headed by Elliot H. Stein, St. Louis investment broker, withdrew Friday from negotiations for purchase of the Kansas City Athletics in favor of a rival Kansas City group.

The about-face came just after Stein met with representatives of Kansas City business and civic interests seeking control of the last-place American League club.

Stein said he and his associates are backing out because of disappointment expressed by Kansas City fans that control might pass to an outside group. But Byron Spencer, an attorney for the Kansas City group, was skeptical.

"I think they are withdrawing for one of two reasons," Spencer said. "One is that they concluded they could not get the other 48 per cent of the stock and the other that they bid too much for the club."

Co-executors of the estate of the late Arnold Johnson, who moved the club to Kansas City upon purchasing control, were authorized Monday to sell the estate's 52 per cent of the stock to the Stein syndicate.

Probate Judge Robert J Dunne of Chicago, who granted the authority, has set another hearing for Monday on the matter. The judge had approved $1,820,000 as the price for the 52 per cent of the stock. Stein said the stock would be offered to the Kansas City group at an identical price.

Terps Play Final Game

Maryland Meets Cavaliers Today

By The Associated Press

Maryland's surprising football team ends its season at Virginia Saturday and one of the most uncredited players in his last game will be Quarterback Dale Betty.

Betty, with little notice, already has completed more passes than any Maryland football player in history. His 69 are three more than Tommy Mont completed in nine games in 1942.

Betty's completed percentage mark of .616 is not only best for Maryland but also is one of the best in the nation.

Making him even more dangerous, Betty can run well with the ball. His 45 carries are the third highest on the squad behind only the fullbacks, Pat Drass and Rex Collins.

Betty and his Maryland teammates will be out for their sixth victory against Virginia. A victory would provide first winning season for the Terrapins since 1955.

The only game in the state Saturday will be at Westminster between Johns Hopkins and Western Maryland.

Both are assured of winning records regardless of the outcome of their last game. Hopkins is 5-1-1 and Western Maryland is 5-3.

Leishman Succeeds Ralph Kiner As GM

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League Friday named Eddie Leishman, 49, their general manager.

Leishman, a former successful farm team general manager for the New York Yankees, resigned last month as general manager of the Salt Lake City Bees—a post he held thre seasons.

He replaces Ralph Kiner, who will remain a Padre vice president. Kiner, former major league slugging star, plans soon to become an executive of the proposed Los Angeles entry in the American League.

BIDS FOR TEAM — Charles O. Finley, 42-year-old insurance broker from Gary, Ind., was interviewed yesterday by American League officials on his request for the baseball franchise in Los Angeles. He came to a special expansion meeting when he heard Hank Greenberg of the Chicago White Sox had withdrawn his bid. Finley said "I have $5,000,000 of my own money ready to invest if and when I get league approval." (AP Photofax)

Woodling Heads Fifteen Birds On Draft List

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran outfielder Gene Woodling is one of the 15 players the Baltimore Orioles made available for draft at $75,000 each by the new Washington and Los Angeles franchises, the Associated Press learned Friday.

The other Orioles on the expendable list are pitchers Billy Hoeft, Gordon Jones, Roy Moeller, Steve Dalkowski and Dean Chance, catchers Clint Courtney, Gene Green and Frank Zupo, infielders Walt Dropo, Bob Boyd, Billy Klaus and Don Ross and outfielders Chuck Hinton and Jim Liggett.

Sentinels Get Ready For 25th Cage Season

Opener On Dec. 21 Is 589th Contest

Fort Hill High School marks the opening of its silver anniversary year in basketball one month from Monday (Dec. 21) when it meets Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs on the West Virginians' court.

It will be the 589th cage contest for the Sentinels since 1937. Over the past 24 seasons Fort Hill has won 383 games while losing 205 for a .651 average.

Last season was the losingest in the school's history and the Sentinels don't have to win many games to better their 2-19 mark.

Coach Jim Eckard has scheduled 18 games and hopes to add two more.

Five of the players returning, namely, Jim Rice, Bill Colbert, Dick Peck, George Twigg and Bill Sheetz, have three years' experience. Rice paced the scorers last season with 208 tallies.

The schedule:

Dec. 21 — Martinsburg, A. 23 — LaSalle, A. 28 — Alumni, H.

Jan. 6 — Valley, H. 10 — Bruce, A. 13 — Beall, A. 17 — Mt. Savage, H. 20 — Allegany, H. 27 — Martinsburg, H. 28 — Keyser, H. 31 — South Hagerstown, A.

Feb. 3 — Valley, A. 7 — Bruce, H. 10 — Beall, H. 14 — Mt. Savage, A. 17 — Allegany, A. 21 — LaSalle, H. 24 — South Hagerstown, H.

Stock Market Advances On Stepped-Up Volume

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks finished out the week on a firm note Friday with the major interest once again centered among the so-called special situations.

The market held to the upside all day but managed a final fling in the closing minutes as traders anticipated a boost in short interest figures, confirmed after the bell.

The short interest rose 378,390 shares over a month earlier and was the highest since Jan. 15, 1959. A high short interest is considered technically bullish because traders who sell "short," that is, sell borrowed stock in the expectation of lower prices, eventually must buy back the stock and thereby shore up the market.

Other bullish developments cited by brokers as an inducement to buy were personal income having set an eighth consecutive monthly record in October, a high rate of operations in the auto industry and a sharp rise in housing starts. The Dow-Jones industrial average also is currently in an area deemed heavily resistant to a further decline.

That average Friday rose 1.44 to 603.62 while the rails advanced 0.59 to 128.98 and utilities firmed 0.29 to 94.12. Volume picked up to 2,760,000 shares from 2,450,000 Thursday.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans, rye and nearby wheat futures closed mostly firm Friday on the Board of Trade.

Other grains declined under heavy hedge and liquidating sales. All corn and meal, oats and soybean meal deliveries tumbled to new lows for the season.

At the final bell wheat was unchanged to up ⅜; corn off ⅝ to 1⅜; oats off ¼ to ⅝; rye unchanged to up ½; and soybeans up ⅜ to 1.

Wheat firmed on export and mill buying. The market fell back on selling by longs, who found the action of other grains discouraging.

Several countries were in the market for wheat. Sales reported Friday included 485,000 bushels of red to the United Arab Republic and 560,000 bushels to Turkey.

December corn dropped to $1.00⅞, the lowest since the early 1940s. Spreaders and exporters bought futures on the decline.

Cash arrivals were lighter, but the basis fell again. Corn with less than 20 per cent moisture sold at 7 cents below December, while wetter corn sold 8 cents below.

Oats eased under commission selling. Shorts covered, and cash houses bought December.

Lower oil and meal markets continued to exert pressure on soybeans. However, moderate buying appeared on the decline, and oils rallied.

Exporters also reported Holland took 5,000 tons of corn. Subsidies were granted on 1,348,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

Stock Market Advances On Stepped-Up Volume

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks finished out the week on a firm note Friday with the major interest once again centered among the so-called special situations.

The market held to the upside all day but managed a final fling in the closing minutes as traders anticipated a boost in short interest figures, confirmed after the bell.

The short interest rose 378,390 shares over a month earlier and was the highest since Jan. 15, 1959. A high short interest is considered technically bullish because traders who sell "short," that is, sell borrowed stock in the expectation of lower prices, eventually must buy back the stock and thereby shore up the market.

Other bullish developments cited by brokers as an inducement to buy were personal income having set an eighth consecutive monthly record in October, a high rate of operations in the auto industry and a sharp rise in housing starts. The Dow-Jones industrial average also is currently in an area deemed heavily resistant to a further decline.

That average Friday rose 1.44 to 603.62 while the rails advanced 0.59 to 128.98 and utilities firmed 0.29 to 94.12. Volume picked up to 2,760,000 shares from 2,450,000 Thursday.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans, rye and nearby wheat futures closed mostly firm Friday on the Board of Trade.

Other grains declined under heavy hedge and liquidating sales. All corn and [illegible] meal deliveries tumbled to new lows for the season.

[illegible] wheat was unchanged to up ⅛; corn off ⅝ to 1⅜; oats off ¼ to [illegible] unchanged to up ½; and soybeans up ⅜ to 1.

Wheat firmed on export and mill buying. The market fell back on selling by longs, who found the action of other grains discouraging.

Several countries were in the market for wheat. Sales reported Friday included 485,000 bushels of red to the United Arab Republic and 560,000 bushels to Turkey.

December corn dropped to $1.00⅞, the lowest since the early 1940s. Spreaders and exporters bought futures on the decline.

Cash arrivals were lighter, but the basis fell again. Corn with less than 20 per cent moisture sold at 7 cents below December, while wetter corn sold 8 cents below.

Oats eased under commission selling. Shorts covered, and cash houses bought December.

Lower oil and meal markets continued to exert pressure on soybeans. However, moderate buying appeared on the decline, and oils rallied.

Exporters also reported Holland took 5,000 tons of corn. Subsidies were granted on 1,348,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

THIS I GUARANTEE
You can't buy a better car for less than from Bob Gulick at
THRIFTY AUTO SALES

Don't let low prices fool you. Ford alone built exactly 40 different types of automobiles in 1957. Assuming all the cars are still in good condition, there current values varies from $680 to $2405.

I can't sell you a perfect car, but you will never meet a man who will more sincerely try.

THIS I GUARANTEE

You can't buy a better car for less than from Bob Gulick at THRIFTY AUTO SALES

Don't let low prices fool you. Ford alone built exactly 40 different types of automobiles in 1957. Assuming all the cars are still in good condition, there current values varies from $680 to $2405.

I can't sell you a perfect car, but you will never meet a man who will more sincerely try.

Six-Point Plan Is Backed By Legislators

Meeting Sought With Beall And Mathias

Allegany County legislators last night pledged whole-hearted approval and support to the Six-Point Program of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, to relieve unemployment in this area.

The action was taken unanimously by State Senator Charles M. See and members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly at legislative hearing held in the Allegany County Court House.

The motion was made by House Minority Leader Lester B. Reed and seconded by Del. Fred Driscoll, who called attention to the plan the delegation has pushed for the establishment of an area branch of the Department of Research and Education.

Plan Meeting

Such a facility, it was agreed, might meet at least part of the objective of the fifth point — the establishment of a coal research center, for which funds have been asked in the upcoming budget.

Details of the Six-point plan were explained by Stanley Zorick, secretary of the AFL-CIO Council, who headed a delegation which included Josiah Mullenax, chairman, and John G. Thomas, Graydon S. Dunlap, F. Patrick Allender and Andrew Lewis.

Mr. Zorick said the council hopes soon to meet with U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. elect Charles McC. Mathias, both of whom have endorsed the program.

Other major points of the program are the extension of Interstate Route 70 from Hancock to the Pennsylvania line, the development of the Upper Potomac River Basin, construction of needed public works and the passage of an import quota system to protect area industries from low-cost imports.

Presents Questions

Earlier, the legislators sat to hear proposals made by members of Allegany-Garrett Chapter 4 of the Maryland Classified Employes, who are members of the maintenance force of the State Roads Commission.

Raymond O. Metz, Lonaconing, president, served as spokesman for the some two dozen SRC workers who attended.

He discussed questions raised by members of the unit and was told to present the program in a formal letter, so it could be studied by Senator See and the Delegation.

His first question was why, when expenditures for maintenance become scarce, the deficit is met by cutting time and money for maintenance employes, while other means are found in other departments.

Seek Flat Boost

The second was on the chances of a bill being passed to provide a pay raise for all state employes, stating the Maryland Classified Employes Association is in favor of an across-the-board increase.

He next asked the legislators' opinion on the possibility of the state paying fringe benefits, such as life insurance and hospitalization, and suggested that since the maintenance workers help to pay fringe benefits for workers in private industry, "why not let them help pay for ours by putting a ½ cent tax on kerosene and heating oil?"

He asked if it were true that Baltimore City gets a third of all gasoline tax money and was told the formula is 50 per cent to the State Roads Commission, 30 per cent to Baltimore and 20 per cent to the 23 counties. His point was that if Baltimore got a third, the amount could be decreased and part of the funds used to boost wages of SRC workers.

Are Covered

He was told, in reply to a question, that workers are covered by state compensation during the time it takes to travel by state transportation to and from the job.

"Why, then," he asked, "are the men not entitled to pay for the time?"

He was told that was "portal-to-portal pay" and an entirely different issue.

The group also wanted to know why a contractor must pay laborers the prevailing rate, which is higher than the wages paid regular state employes. Why not pass a law, they said, that SRC laborers would get the same as the prevailing rate?

The group also asked why unclassified workers should be required to pass an annual physical examination while classified workers are not.

Del. Estel C. Kelley said the solution is a bill which failed in the Senate last year which would have brought all state workers

Jury Unable To Decide In Loans Case

Bankruptcy Law Involved In Suit

A jury yesterday afternoon was unable to reach a verdict in a case in Allegany County Circuit Court involving loans and the use of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial involving the suit of the Beneficial Finance Company here against Leonard E. and Virginia E. Porter, Oldtown.

The petit jurors began deliberations at 1:30 p. m. and returned to the court room about two hours later for clarification on one point by Judge Harris.

They reconvened and were unable to come to a decision shortly before 5 p. m. they were dismissed.

The finance company sued the Oldtown couple for $717.60 which the Porters allegedly owed the company at the time they filed a petition for bankruptcy in U. S. District Court for Maryland in Baltimore on December 4, 1957.

The finance company, through its attorney, Leslie J. Clark, stated that the Porters are liable for the amount owed on December 4, 1957.

Clark contended that the Porters failed to list all their debts on their petition for bankruptcy.

Testimony by managers of four other local finance firms, a jewelry firm and a credit union showed that the Porters also owed them money at the December 4, 1957, date.

But in several cases, the Porters were identified by the witnesses not as Leonard E. and Virginia Porter, but as Arthur E. and Josephine Porter.

John M. Robb was attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Porter.

W. Va. Phone Users Will Get Refunds

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Service Commission Friday granted Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. a $3.1 million rate increase to its 332,000 West Virginia customers — less than half the amount requested by the utility.

C&P had asked for a boost of $6.5 million. The amount approved come to 48.9 per cent of that.

The commission said the new rates will provide the company a 6.45 per cent rate of return. C&P had asked for 7.04 per cent and said it needed $6.5 million more in annual revenue to make that margin. The PSC staff and company rate people differ sharply over certain methods of computing costs.

The utility had put the higher rates under the full proposal into effect Sept. 5 and is now required to refund to customers amounts collected above the authorized rates, plus 6 per cent interest.

The commission ruled on two applications, one asking for an increase on toll charges and the other asking for higher exchange rates.

New monthly private - line rates for residences will be about 40 cents a month higher than formerly, but anywhere from 85 cents to $1.30 less than requested by the company. Some examples of both residential and business rates include Huntington — residential $7.20, business $16.15; Parkersburg, Clarksburg, Morgantown, Beckley and Fairmont — residential $6.75, business $14.80; Elkins — $5.95 and $12; Logan, Williamson and Martinsburg — $6.35 and $13.40, Charleston $7.85 and $17.80, and Wheeling, about 7.18 and $16.65.

Interstate 70 Unit Dedicated At Hancock

U.S. 40 Rebuilding Slated In 5 Years

HANCOCK, Md. (AP) — A new section of Interstate Route 70, the type of expressway which State Roads Commission Chairman John B. Funk says is needed to "win the battle of the transportation bulge," was opened east of here Friday.

Speaking at dedication ceremonies, Funk said the battle will unfold in the near future when today's masses of school children become adult consumers.

"At that point," Funk said, "our transportation facilities will be straining at the seams."

The problem, he said, will involve movement of consumer goods and increased numbers of people from one place to another.

Opened to traffic Friday was a 3.8-mile section between Tonoloway Creek and Millstone in Washington County. The $3,085,912 project, which included construction of three bridges, replaces a winding portion of old U.S. 40 leading into Hancock.

Ends At Hancock

Interstate Route 70 in Maryland eventually will run from the Pennsylvania line west of Hancock into Frederick, where it will branch out into spurs leading to both Baltimore and Washington.

Without such a road, Funk said, a plant or commercial distributing firm interested in fulfilling the new needs of the populous East probably would locate near Washington or Baltimore.

But with Interstate 70 completed, he said, there is "a distinct possibility that industry or farm product distribution centers will want to locate in Western Maryland, meaning jobs for more people."

Funk said the economy of regions in the motoring age is centered around the expressway in much the same way railroads held sway in years past.

The only difference, he said, "is that expressway traffic rolls on free wheels, the interchange has replaced the station and the connecting highways are the spur lines."

Plan Area Work

To help Western Maryland meet the needs of a new form of economy, Funk said the roads commission plans to complete all of Interstate 70 between Hancock and Frederick and rebuild U.S. 40 from Sideling Hill to Keyser's Ridge within the next five years.

He also said the SRC will place under contract within the next year the section of Interstate 81 from U.S. 40 to U.S. 11.

Funk touched on the safety factors involved in the construction of expressways, noting the death rate on controlled access highways in Maryland is 61 per cent less than on roads with no control of access.

14,000 Likely To Eat Turkey At School Here

Allegany County public school cafeterias are making preparations to serve nearly 14,000 roast turkey dinners next Tuesday, according to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias.

Some 6,500 pounds of turkey are being distributed to the cafeterias for the pre-Thanksgiving feast. Mrs. Eaton has suggested a menu calling for orange and grapefruit juice, roast turkey, whipped potatoes, dressing optional, mixed vegetable salad, cranberry sauce, frosted fruit bar, milk, roll and butter.

Last year, some 13,734 turkey dinners were served in the school cafeterias. Included were 13,090 students and 644 adults. That participation exceeded the number served at the Christmas meal last year. On that occasion, 13,590 were served including 12,965 students.

Although a 1 p. m. dismissal for the Thanksgiving holiday is planned in the public schools for next Wednesday,. all school cafeterias except Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall will operate on the day before Thanksgiving.

Visitors Barred At Co. Jail

Visiting hours at the Allegany County jail have been canceled since the discovery of a hole punched in the screening at the visitors' section, Sheriff Paul Haberlein said yesterday.

On Wednesday the sheriff's deputies discovered the hole, about one inch in diameter. Sheriff Haberlein observed it was large enough to allow hacksaw blades or a knife to be slipped through.

All prisoners have been locked up in the tier sections, and none will be allowed to walk around in the different sections inside the jail itself until a search is completed.

The sheriff said the jail is being searched again today and the prisoners are to be given a "shakedown" to locate whatever was passed through the hole.

In addition, the sheriff said, no packages of food or clothing will be allowed to be given to the prisoners.

As of yesterday, there were 35 prisoners in the jail, three of them trusties working in the kitchen.

Persons visiting prisoners at the jail are placed in the small anteroom between the main jail door and the inner door. This section is surrounded by bars covered by screening.

Regular visiting hours are Tuesday and Friday from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Elk Garden High Discussed In County Survey

Consultants Air Needs Of School

Elk Garden High School "is due to fade unless it can find a wider patronage area" in the opinion of two consultants from West Virginia University who made a survey of county-wide school plant needs for the Board of Education of Mineral County.

The board does not expect an early decision on acceptance or rejection on the visionary survey, E. W. Welshonce, Keyser, assistant superintendent says.

In the long run, it will be the people in the county who will determine what action is to be taken on the survey, since it will necessitate a bond levy.

Copies of the comprehensive 39-page report are available to groups or individuals at the office of the Mineral County Board of Education.

As the high school enrollment in Elk Garden continues to decline, even with the support which comes from the attendance of Maryland children—66 out of the total of 320 for 1959-60 — it will be increasingly difficult to provide an adequate six-year high school program without prohibitive cost.

The consultants feel that one possible solution to maintaining it in fairly adequate fashion and without prohibitive cost might be to persuade Grant County school authorities and the people of the northwestern part of that county to join forces in what might be termed a Highland High School, using the Elk Garden plant.

Perhaps over a 10-year period the high school at Elk Garden could serve parts of the two counties with reciprocating arrangements for elementary instruction.

Otherwise, the consultants point out, Elk Garden will have to abandon the 10-12 grades and send these puipls to Keyser. The present building might then accommodate a good nine-grade school and avoid additional investment in buildings. Bringing the Cross School pupils to Elk Garden may prove necessary, they said.

Until the population trend stabilizes, the report said, any large investment for new buildings or to modernize existing facilities at this point would not be justified.

The consultants said they "would deplore the necessity of hauling these primary children further from their homes," but as the Elk Garden area population dwindles it may be necessary to haul some of the students considerable distances.

The additions already made to the high school to accommodate the middle grades may point the way to using still more of the space there for elementary pupils, relieving the crowding occasioned there by transporting grades 10-12 to Keyser where a reorganized high school is proposed.

Three Injured As Car Rams Truck On Hill

Three local men were injured last night when the car in which they were traveling rammed into the rear of a loaded coal truck on Sideling Hill about nine miles west of Hancock.

Injured in the crash were Lester J. Auker, 59, of RD 2, city, driver of the car, who sustained a severe laceration on his nose, and Charles Burns, 36, of 210 Fulton Street, who sustained a laceration of his eye.

Auker is to return to the hospital today for X-rays. Uninjured in the accident at 7:30 p. m. was Harold G. Boner, Jane Frazier Village, driver of the coal truck.

Trooper Robert D. Kirby of the State Police, who is continuing an investigation, said both vehicles were traveling east on U. S. Route 40.

Later in the day East Side firemen were called to the front of 310 Independence Street when an auto belonging to Donald Boyer, 461 Goethe Street, caught fire.

They said hydraulic fluid seeped over the exhaust and caught fire. The fire was out on arrival, according to firemen who received a call at 7:13 p. m.

Police Adopt Thanksgiving Traffic Plan

Beefed-Up Patrol To Keep Cars Moving

Plans for expediting Thanksgiving Day traffic to and from the Fort Hill Stadium were completed yesterday at a meeting in the office of Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Details, which include the use of all motorized equipment, extra officers, Auxiliary Police and special traffic routes, were worked out with Police Chief B. F. Gaffney, Assistant Chief John E. Sherry and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Mr. Fleming said the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. platoon will report for work at the Police Station at noon and will work at one of 18 special stations set up for the afternoon until traffic is back to normal.

The men will get a day off for the extra duty, he said.

To Use Scooters

All police equipment, with the exception of the patrol wagon, will be put into service to help speed the flow of traffic to and from the Turkey Day game.

During game time, the department's three scooters will be used to keep spectators from the playing field and sidelines.

Mr. Fleming said many persons have an urge to forge ahead to the sidelines, creating a hazard for the officials, coaches and players. The police-manned scooters, he added, will patrol only when necessary.

South Centre Street, from Harrison to Williams Street, will be one way north beginning at noon, and two lanes of traffic will be maintained from Williams Street to Baltimore.

Mr. Fleming said the traffic plan was adopted as a trial by himself and Chief Gaffney to see what effect it will have on further traffic movements in the area.

The left lane will be for West-Side-bound traffic and the right lane for north and eastbound vehicles.

To Await Signal

Commissioner Fleming said the Police Department wants to get people to and from the Turkey Day game quickly and safely, so they will be in time for the Thanksgiving feast awaiting them at home.

It will also give out-of-town fans a chance to return to their homes before dark, he said.

Details of the traffic control program have been sent to Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, and Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School.

He asked the school officials, in connection with the Victory parade, to remind the band leader to remain in the stadium until a police officer leads the way to the exit.

This is very important, Mr. Fleming emphasized, because "it is our duty to move traffic as quickly as possible."

Six-Point Plan Is Backed By Legislators

Meeting Sought With Beall And Mathias

Allegany County legislators last night pledged whole-hearted approval and support to the Six-Point Program of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, to relieve unemployment in this area.

The action was taken unanimously by State Senator Charles M. See and members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly at legislative hearing held in the Allegany County Court House.

The motion was made by House Minority Leader Lester B. Reed and seconded by Del. Fred Driscoll, who called attention to the plan the delegation has pushed for the establishment of an area branch of the Department of Research and Education.

Plan Meeting

Such a facility, it was agreed, might meet at least part of the objective of the fifth point — the establishment of a coal research center, for which funds have been asked in the upcoming budget.

Details of the Six-point plan were explained by Stanley Zorick, secretary of the AFL-CIO Council, who headed a delegation which included Josiah Mullenax, chairman, and John G. Thomas, Graydon S. Dunlap, F. Patrick Allender and Andrew Lewis.

Mr. Zorick said the council hopes soon to meet with U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. elect Charles McC. Mathias, both of whom have endorsed the program.

Other major points of the program are the extension of Interstate Route 70 from Hancock to the Pennsylvania line, the development of the Upper Potomac River Basin, construction of needed public works and the passage of an import quota system to protect area industries from low-cost imports.

Presents Questions

Earlier, the legislators sat to hear proposals made by members of Allegany-Garrett Chapter 4 of the Maryland Classified Employes, who are members of the maintenance force of the State Roads Commission.

Raymond O. Metz, Lonaconing, president, served as spokesman for the some two dozen SRC workers who attended.

He discussed questions raised by members of the unit and was told to present the program in a formal letter, so it could be studied by Senator See and the Delegation.

His first question was why, when expenditures for maintenance become scarce, the deficit is met by cutting time and money for maintenance employes, while other means are found in other departments.

Seek Flat Boost

The second was on the chances of a bill being passed to provide a pay raise for all state employes, stating the Maryland Classified Employes Association is in favor of an across-the-board increase.

He next asked the legislators' opinion on the possibility of the state paying fringe benefits, such as life insurance and hospitalization, and suggested that since the maintenance workers help to pay fringe benefits for workers in private industry, "why not let them help pay for ours by putting a ½ cent tax on kerosene and heating oil?"

He asked if it were true that Baltimore City gets a third of all gasoline tax money and was told the formula is 50 per cent to the State Roads Commission, 30 per cent to Baltimore and 20 per cent to the 23 counties. His point was that if Baltimore got a third, the amount could be decreased and part of the funds used to boost wages of SRC workers.

Are Covered

He was told, in reply to a question, that workers are covered by state compensation during the time it takes to travel by state transportation to and from the job.

"Why, then," he asked, "are the men not entitled to pay for the time?"

He was told that was "portal-to-portal pay" and an entirely different issue.

The group also wanted to know why a contractor must pay laborers the prevailing rate, which is higher than the wages paid regular state employes. Why not pass a law, they said, that SRC laborers would get the same as the prevailing rate?

The group also asked why unclassified workers should be required to pass an annual physical examination while classified workers are not.

Del. Estel C. Kelley said the solution is a bill which failed in the Senate last year which would have brought all state workers

Jury Unable To Decide In Loans Case

Bankruptcy Law Involved In Suit

A jury yesterday afternoon was unable to reach a verdict in a case in Allegany County Circuit Court involving loans and the use of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial involving the suit of the Beneficial Finance Company here against Leonard E. and Virginia E. Porter, Oldtown.

The petit jurors began deliberations at 1:30 p. m. and returned to the court room about two hours later for clarification on one point by Judge Harris.

They reconvened and were unable to come to a decision shortly before 5 p. m. they were dismissed.

The finance company sued the Oldtown couple for $717.60 which the Porters allegedly owed the company at the time they filed a petition for bankruptcy in U. S. District Court for Maryland in Baltimore on December 4, 1957.

The finance company, through its attorney, Leslie J. Clark, stated that the Porters are liable for the amount owed on December 4, 1957.

Clark contended that the Porters failed to list all their debts on their petition for bankruptcy.

Testimony by managers of four other local finance firms, a jewelry firm and a credit union showed that the Porters also owed them money at the December 4, 1957, date.

But in several cases, the Porters were identified by the witnesses not as Leonard E. and Virginia Porter, but as Arthur E. and Josephine Porter.

John M. Robb was attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Porter.

To help Western Maryland meet the needs of a new form of economy, Funk said the roads commission plans to complete all of Interstate 70 between Hancock and Frederick and rebuild U.S. 40 from Sideling Hill to Keyser's Ridge within the next five years.

He also said the SRC will place under contract within the next year the section of Interstate 81 from U.S. 40 to U.S. 11.

Funk touched on the safety factors involved in the construction of expressways, noting the death rate on controlled access highways in Maryland is 61 per cent less than on roads with no control of access.

14,000 Likely To Eat Turkey At School Here

Allegany County public school cafeterias are making preparations to serve nearly 14,000 roast turkey dinners next Tuesday, according to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias.

Some 6,500 pounds of turkey are being distributed to the cafeterias for the pre-Thanksgiving feast. Mrs. Eaton has suggested a menu calling for orange and grapefruit juice, roast turkey, whipped potatoes, dressing optional, mixed vegetable salad, cranberry sauce, frosted fruit bar, milk, roll and butter.

Last year, some 13,734 turkey dinners were served in the school cafeterias. Included were 13,090 students and 644 adults. That participation exceeded the number served at the Christmas meal last year. On that occasion, 13,590 were served including 12,965 students.

Although a 1 p. m. dismissal for the Thanksgiving holiday is planned in the public schools for next Wednesday,. all school cafeterias except Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall will operate on the day before Thanksgiving.

Visitors Barred At Co. Jail

Visiting hours at the Allegany County jail have been canceled since the discovery of a hole punched in the screening at the visitors' section, Sheriff Paul Haberlein said yesterday.

On Wednesday the sheriff's deputies discovered the hole, about one inch in diameter. Sheriff Haberlein observed it was large enough to allow hacksaw blades or a knife to be slipped through.

All prisoners have been locked up in the tier sections, and none will be allowed to walk around in the different sections inside the jail itself until a search is completed.

The sheriff said the jail is being searched again today and the prisoners are to be given a "shakedown" to locate whatever was passed through the hole.

In addition, the sheriff said, no packages of food or clothing will be allowed to be given to the prisoners.

As of yesterday, there were 35 prisoners in the jail, three of them trusties working in the kitchen.

Persons visiting prisoners at the jail are placed in the small anteroom between the main jail door and the inner door. This section is surrounded by bars covered by screening.

Regular visiting hours are Tuesday and Friday from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

They were met at the filtration plant by Ray Nixon, acting superintendent.

The group inspected Lake Gordon and Lake Koon and visited the interior of the plant, where crews were touching up metal work in the settling basin.

'Bowler's' Turkey Shoot Today, Sunday

The ten-pin turkey shoot at The Bowler, Winchester Road and Route 40, will be held this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon. Through an error, the turkey shoot was advertised as being scheduled yesterday and today.

Turkeys will be given as prizes in three categories, with three contests each day.

Local 26 To Meet

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the union hall. Business will include a report from the Screening committee.

Amcelle Pioneer Honored

Hugo Keller, who is marking his approaching retirement after 41 years of service with the Celanese Corporation, is being presented a gift by John A. Hancox as Mrs. Keller looks on during a party held in his honor last night by some 100 of his associates. Mr. Keller has been in charge of the solvent recovery operation here since the Amcelle plant was started.

Elk Garden High Discussed In County Survey

Consultants Air Needs Of School

Elk Garden High School "is due to fade unless it can find a wider patronage area" in the opinion of two consultants from West Virginia University who made a survey of county-wide school plant needs for the Board of Education of Mineral County.

The board does not expect an early decision on acceptance or rejection on the visionary survey, E. W. Welshonce, Keyser, assistant superintendent says.

In the long run, it will be the people in the county who will determine what action is to be taken on the survey, since it will necessitate a bond levy.

Copies of the comprehensive 39-page report are available to groups or individuals at the office of the Mineral County Board of Education.

As the high school enrollment in Elk Garden continues to decline, even with the support which comes from the attendance of Maryland children—66 out of the total of 320 for 1959-60 — it will be increasingly difficult to provide an adequate six-year high school program without prohibitive cost.

The consultants feel that one possible solution to maintaining it in fairly adequate fashion and without prohibitive cost might be to persuade Grant County school authorities and the people of the northwestern part of that county to join forces in what might be termed a Highland High School, using the Elk Garden plant.

Perhaps over a 10-year period the high school at Elk Garden could serve parts of the two counties with reciprocating arrangements for elementary instruction.

Otherwise, the consultants point out, Elk Garden will have to abandon the 10-12 grades and send these puipls to Keyser. The present building might then accommodate a good nine-grade school and avoid additional investment in buildings. Bringing the Cross School pupils to Elk Garden may prove necessary, they said.

Until the population trend stabilizes, the report said, any large investment for new buildings or to modernize existing facilities at this point would not be justified.

The consultants said they "would deplore the necessity of hauling these primary children further from their homes," but as the Elk Garden area population dwindles it may be necessary to haul some of the students considerable distances.

The additions already made to the high school to accommodate the middle grades may point the way to using still more of the space there for elementary pupils, relieving the crowding occasioned there by transporting grades 10-12 to Keyser where a reorganized high school is proposed.

Cub Pack 20 Plans Swim Event Today At Central YMCA

Mt. Royal School's Cub Pack 20 will hold a swim program today at 4 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Last night achievement awards were presented to Billy Rudd, Chris Moore, Eddie Lough, Gale Lough, Eddie McKay, Don Hootten, Tim Hansrote and David Martin.

For participating in general activities in competition with other packs in the district and for the percentage of new members, the Cub pack received a 50th anniversary honor unit award presented by Murray King on behalf of Nemacolin District, Boy Scouts.

"Outer Space" was the theme of skits presented by Dens Two, Four, Six and Seven last night. A report on the successful handling of the "get out the vote" program by the Cubs was heard by 43 Cubs and 73 parents in attendance.

The annual inspection and presentation of shooting medals will be held at the LaVale barracks of the State Police on Monday beginning at 3 p.m.

Lt. William E. O'Hara, commanding officer of the barracks, said the inspection will include the 30 troopers, the building, cruisers and records.

Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of the State Police, will head the inspection team and present medals to the troopers, all of whom qualified earlier this year.

Others in the inspection party will be Major G. E. Davidson, field forces commander; Captain C. B. Dillinger, Troop B Commander; Captain Charles W. Magaha, who heads the detective bureau and Captain James T. Knight, quartermaster.

Three Injured As Car Rams Truck On Hill

Three local men were injured last night when the car in which they were traveling rammed into the rear of a loaded coal truck on Sideling Hill about nine miles west of Hancock.

James Orr, 544 Fairview Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital with possible head and leg injuries and cuts on his face. His condition is "good."

Injured in the crash were Lester J. Auker, 59, of RD 2, city, driver of the car, who sustained a severe laceration on his nose, and Charles Burns, 36, of 210 Fulton Street, who sustained a laceration of his eye.

Auker is to return to the hospital today for X-rays. Uninjured in the accident at 7:30 p. m. was Harold G. Boner, Jane Frazier Village, driver of the coal truck.

Trooper Robert D. Kirby of the State Police, who is continuing an investigation, said both vehicles were traveling east on U. S. Route 40.

Wiring Blamed For Minor Fire In Store Here

Defective wiring at the Dingle Cut-Rate Liquor Store, 758 Greene Street, yesterday was blamed for a minor blaze which ignited under a display counter.

Firemen from West Side station who received a call at 6:16 p. m. said wrappers on a couple of fifths of whisky and some miniature boxes were scorched by the fire, which was out on arrival.

Later in the day East Side firemen were called to the front of 310 Independence Street when an auto belonging to Donald Boyer, 461 Goethe Street, caught fire.

They said hydraulic fluid seeped over the exhaust and caught fire. The fire was out on arrival, according to firemen who received a call at 7:13 p. m.

East Side firemen had a call on Thursday at 9:03 p. m. when a smoke pipe on a stove at 5 Miltenberger Place became overheated. They said there was no fire damage. Firemen checked the flue and pipe before returning to the fire station.

Baby Sitters Class Will Meet Tuesday

The Baby Sitters Class sponsored by the City Recreation Department will hold its third session on Tuesday, November 22, instead of Wednesday, due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

The class will be held at 4 p. m. in City Hall and will feature recreation for tots, including finger games, story telling and games, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director.

Police Adopt Thanksgiving Traffic Plan

Beefed-Up Patrol To Keep Cars Moving

Plans for expediting Thanksgiving Day traffic to and from the Fort Hill Stadium were completed yesterday at a meeting in the office of Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Details, which include the use of all motorized equipment, extra officers, Auxiliary Police and special traffic routes, were worked out with Police Chief B. F. Gaffney, Assistant Chief John E. Sherry and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Mr. Fleming said the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. platoon will report for work at the Police Station at noon and will work at one of 18 special stations set up for the afternoon until traffic is back to normal.

The men will get a day off for the extra duty, he said.

To Use Scooters

All police equipment, with the exception of the patrol wagon, will be put into service to help speed the flow of traffic to and from the Turkey Day game.

During game time, the department's three scooters will be used to keep spectators from the playing field and sidelines.

Mr. Fleming said many persons have an urge to forge ahead to the sidelines, creating a hazard for the officials, coaches and players. The police-manned scooters, he added, will patrol only when necessary.

South Centre Street, from Harrison to Williams Street, will be one way north beginning at noon, and two lanes of traffic will be maintained from Williams Street to Baltimore.

Mr. Fleming said the traffic plan was adopted as a trial by himself and Chief Gaffney to see what effect it will have on further traffic movements in the area.

The left lane will be for West-Side-bound traffic and the right lane for north and eastbound vehicles.

To Await Signal

Commissioner Fleming said the Police Department wants to get people to and from the Turkey Day game quickly and safely, so they will be in time for the Thanksgiving feast awaiting them at home.

It will also give out-of-town fans a chance to return to their homes before dark, he said.

Details of the traffic control program have been sent to Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, and Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School.

He asked the school officials, in connection with the Victory parade, to remind the band leader to remain in the stadium until a police officer leads the way to the exit.

This is very important, Mr. Fleming emphasized, because "it is our duty to move traffic as quickly as possible."

Miss McColly In Pa. Group

Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the Allegany County public schools, will be one of the 17 members of an evaluation team which will check Charleroi (Pa.) Area Senior High School for the Commission on Secondary School Standards for the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Allegany County supervisor is the only Marylander on the Charleroi evaluation team. All of the others are from Pennsylvania school systems.

Homer W. Beggs, principal of the Munhall (Pa.) Junior-Senior High School, is chairman of the evaluation team. The group will meet at Charleroi for dinner at 6 p. m. Monday, November 28, and the evaluation will take place on November 29 and 30 and December 1. The Charleroi school has 727 students and 39 teachers.

Local Man Uninjured When Car Overturns

A 23-year-old local man escaped injury yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving went out of control and turned over in a field along Pennsylvania Route 56 seven miles northwest of Bedford.

Joseph Leon Riggleman, 133 Bedford Street, was traveling east on the highway and lost control of the car, according to police, who said the vehicle crossed the highway and turned over in the field on the opposite side of the road.

Police said the 1951 model car was a total loss in the accident at 3:45 p.m.

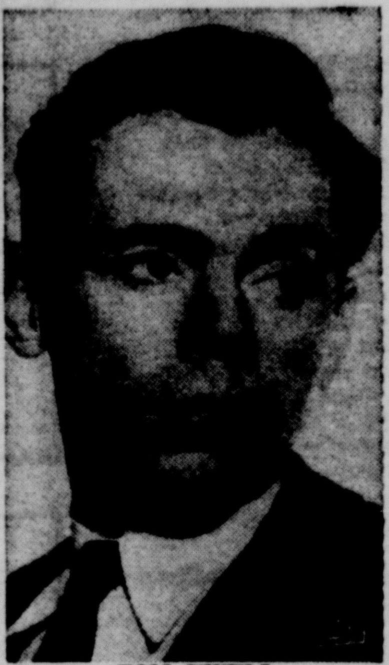
Long Run Forecast For Tom Ewell Show

By PAUL GERARD

This is the year of the situation comedy.

Many of our new comedies do little more than amuse their own laugh tracks and will be gone after thirteen weeks, while others are favored to go the distance and even remain on the air next season.



TOM EWELL

One of these favored is "The Tom Ewell Show," which got off to good reviews and high ratings from its very first giggle. It is seen Tuesday nights on CBS-TV and stars Ewell as a harassed real estate broker surrounded and victimized by an all girl family.

In addition to the star's talents, the series was created by Madelyn Martin and Bob Carroll Jr., the team that turned out a little thing called "I Love Lucy." The producer-director was Hy Averback who guided two years' worth of the highly rated "Real McCoys" and the show was bolstered by a top flight cast headed by Marilyn Erskine, Mabel Albertson and Cindy Robbins.

"No one in the world knows whether comedy is funny until it's played," says Ewell. "It's the most unpredictable form of theater, and I honestly didn't know if we had a funny show or not."

Ewell, whose peerless timing and mobile face have kept Broadway laughing from his first hit "John Loves Mary" to his latest triumph in "The Thunder Carnival," is a student of comedy and speaks of it in a scholarly fashion.

"One of the basic laws of comedy," says Ewell, "was taught to me by George Abbott—the minute you think you are funny, no one else does.

"If you analyze comedy too deeply, it slips away from you and sometimes can never be recaptured.."

In "The Tom Ewell Show," the veteran comedy star often huddles with the writers and makes suggestions. Rarely does he take issue with dialogue but seeks to perfect bits of stage business which has sustained his reputation for being a perfectionist and one of the theater's most respected actors.

Despite his enviable reputation and great knowledge of comedy, Ewell has remained extremely modest.

When a reporter recently asked him whether he regarded himself as a comedian or an actor who plays comedy, Ewell answered, "I regard myself as having worked with clever comedy writers."

ON HIS WAY—Clu Gulager, who plays Billy the Kid in "The Tall Man" series, said recently, "I'm going to be one of the biggest stars in Hollywood." Critics generally agree.
